None Sees All of Action.
A number of witnesses were called to the stand throughout the day. According to testimony none of them had seen the whole of the shooting, with the exception of Kirk and Stanton. State's witnesses emphasized time and again the fact that Stigall had fired upon Hames as he was bending almost prostrate upon the ground.

Ernest Stanton was called to the stand after several passengers of a Courtland-Jumper street car had given accounts of the shooting. Among them was George T. Billings, of 47 East Twelfth street, an employee of the Lamar-Rankin drug company. He described the shooting in minute detail bringing out the fact that Stigall had fired upon Hames while his back was turned.

Stanton declared that his meeting Hames and Kirk upon the corner of Houston and Courtland streets was purely accidental and that no plans had been made ahead of time. He testified that after they had been there but a few minutes Stigall got out of an automobile, and came toward them. Stigall began at once to talk about "framing him." After a few minutes discussion, Stanton said, Stigall produced his revolver and began shooting.

The state is plainly seeking to show that Stigall had planned to "get" Hames at the first opportunity. The solicitor questioned witnesses to prove that when Stigall met Hames, J. H. Kirk and Ernest Stanton he had in his mind the deliberate purpose of killing one or all of them.

"Wish I Had Got All."
W. H. Lancaster, of Decatur, was placed on the stand for the state. He testified that Stigall had declared after the shooting that "three men met me on this corner to frame me. I think I got one of them and I wish to God I had got them all."

Stanton testified that Stigall had met him on the morning of the shooting and that the latter accused him of "framing him." Stigall accused him, Stanton said, of going to a negro house on Fraser street and firing a shot in an effort to "frame him." Stanton declared he told Stigall that he knew of no such plan, and that Stigall threatened to "get" them all the next time he saw them.

Saw Woman on Scene.
Mrs. George Glazner, of 81 Houston street, testified that she saw a light haired woman driving the closed car in which Stigall rode to the scene of the shooting. She said she saw a closed car drive up and saw a man alight and walk to where the other three men were standing. She said the man who left the car did the shooting. Mrs. Glazner declared that she only saw the last shot fired but that she heard the others. She said the last shot was fired into Hames' back.

Dr. O. R. Bush, of Grady hospital, testified that when he examined Hames' body he found three bullet holes, one in the head, one in the back and one ranging through the body from left to right. Dr. W. S. Hancock, also of Grady hospital, corroborated Dr. Bush's testimony as to the location of the three wounds. A blood stained coat was identified by Dr. Hancock as the coat worn by Hames when he was brought to the hospital.

Attorney Schley Howard, counsel for defense, sought to show in examining Stanton that he had attempted to secure affidavits against Stigall in order to "get" his job. Numerous parties were mentioned by Attorney Howard. Stanton denied going to them for affidavits, but admitted seeing the majority of them on other business.

Stanton Denies Plot.
In answer to Attorney Howard's question whether or not he had gone to O. C. Gossett and tried to get an affidavit to the effect that Stigall had protected them in liquor business Stanton declared that he "never went to O. C. Gossett in his life." Stanton admitted going to several houses with Kirk and Hames but declared he had no knowledge of their mission. He could not be shaken in his position that he had not attempted to "frame" Stigall.

Stanton then rehearsed his previous testimony regarding the position of Hames when Stigall fired the last shot, saying that Hames' back was turned toward Stigall. Attorney Howard questioned Stanton closely after the latter had made the statement that he witnessed the entire shooting while he was running away from the scene, looking over his left shoulder.

Stanton then identified Dora Batty as the woman who drove the car in which Stigall arrived on the scene.

Peace Warrant Barred.
Testimony which Attorney Howard attempted to introduce relative to a peace warrant which had been taken out for Stanton was excluded by Judge Humphries.

W. J. Morrison, secretary to Police Chief James L. Beavers, identified a pistol which he said had been issued by the department.

S. L. Sloan, of 24 Augustine place, president of the Sloan Paper company, of Atlanta, was next called to the stand. He stated that he was driving past the corner in an automobile and witnessed the shooting. He also declared that Stigall had fired upon Hames while the latter's back was turned.

Following the examination of this witness by the defense Solicitor Boykin introduced several bits of evidence to the court, among them was the pistol, exhibited as the one used by Stigall, several photographs of the scene of the shooting, a hat worn by Hames and a hat worn by Stanton, together with the blood stained coat of Hames.

Billings testified that after Stigall had fired the last shot he reloaded his revolver and that a young man walked up to him, and as if in congratulation patted him on the back. J. M. Wallace, an automobile salesman, was then called into the room. He was identified as the man who "patted Stigall on the back."

Threatened to Shoot.
G. C. Lanford, manager of a drug store at 110 Decatur street, only a short distance from the scene of the shooting, testified that Stigall came into his drug store about 5 o'clock in company with a young man and had threatened to use his pistol. He said he heard Stigall say: "These fellows framed up and sent three fellows to the chair, but they can't frame me. I'll kill them first."

J. P. Wilkerson, of 19 Beecher street, was called to the stand. He declared that he saw three men standing on the corner, one of whom he later learned was Kirk, was talking loudly and pointing his finger at Stigall. He said Stigall stepped back, pulled out his pistol and shot at Kirk twice, and then shot at Stanton and turned on Hames. The first shot fired at Hames was while he was facing Stigall, the witness said, the second when he turned sideways and the last when he had his back turned. He said that the three men made no effort to reach for arms.

ALABAMA FLOGGING RETURN IS SCORED

Anniston, Ala., September 19.—Describing the whipping system as "a relic of barbarism that no civilized government should sanction and no enlightened people should tolerate," former Governor Thomas E. Kilby said today in a statement commenting on the action of the state board of convict supervisors in restoring the lash in convict camps. Use of the lash was abolished last year by an executive order from Mr. Kilby, who was then governor.

Pickets Picketed.
Pickets were stationed at all newspaper plants throughout last night, but aside from jeers as the trucks rolled away, there were few untoward incidents.

Police reported that a driver of a New York American, had been held up and additional men were sent to guard that office. The Drivers' Union, however, refused to allow patrolmen to ride in their wagons or cars.

EARLY END SEEN IN PRESS STRIKE

New York, September 19.—Hope for a speedy settlement of the strike of Web pressmen, which have prevented publication of the city's leading morning and evening newspapers since midnight Monday, was entertained when the strikers this afternoon discussed a proposal that they return to work under a ten days' truce.

The action of the strikers was taken at a meeting of more than 2,000 strikers, at which George L. Berry, president of the international union, submitted the proposal that the men return to work under a ten-day truce. The strikers rejected the proposal, but accepted a secondary proposal made by Mr. Berry that they take up their differences directly with the owners and the international.

To Meet Today.
The meeting, it was stated, probably will be held tomorrow, or as soon thereafter as officials of the international union can get to New York.

The strike, which began when workers on morning newspapers left their posts shortly after midnight yesterday morning, continued through yesterday and last night, with both afternoon and morning papers resorting to limited editions bearing the title "The Combined New York Newspapers," and carrying on the front page the names of each paper affected.

Mr. Berry, in a letter sent to the local union last night, ordered the strikers to return to work, declaring the strike was unauthorized and failure to comply immediately with his request would result in a suspension of the reply would be delivered at the noon conference.

The papers published this morning were thin eight-page affairs, containing little or no advertising or editorials. Features were curtailed, and one of the leading stories on all front pages was an account of the pressmen's strike.

ARLINGTON MERCHANT IS KILLED BY TRUCK

Arlington, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—J. J. Harrison, prominent local merchant, was run down by a truck driven by Sam Rollins this morning, sustaining injuries that caused his death several hours later. Mr. Harrison was attempting to cross the street in front of his store when he noticed the truck coming and, according to eye witnesses, he seemed undecided whether to cross in front of the truck or go back to the sidewalk.

The driver was confused also as he turned the vehicle from the right to the left in an attempt to miss Mr. Harrison. The wheels did not touch Mr. Harrison but the fatal injuries were sustained when the differential came in contact with his body, after he had been knocked down. He is survived by his widow; two daughters, Mrs. F. S. McEluff, of Arlington, and Mrs. J. F. Strickland, of Elision; one son, Homer Harrison, of Blakely, Ga., and several grandchildren. Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

Several foreign language newspapers are appearing for the first time printed in English, from captions and editorials to advertisements. News stands which distribute out of town dailies report selling thousands of extra copies.

Five men who said they were pressmen for the World were arrested today charged with malicious mischief. Detectives said they seized fifty bundles of newspapers from an elevated train and carried them in a taxicab to the East River, ostensibly with the intention of destroying them.

TETTER ON HANDS AND FACE
Would Itch and Burn. Lost Rest. Cuticura Heals.

"I had tetter on my hands and face and it troubled me very much. It first caused the skin to become red and tender and a rash formed. It caused my hands to crack open and would also itch and burn which kept me awake at night. I could not do any kind of rough work. This lasted four years or more. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I could see the results in two weeks and in less than one month I was healed." (Signed) Jones Wilder, Star Rt., Henderson, Texas.

Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum are all you need for every-day toilet and nursery purposes.

PHILLIPS FREED; CHARGES DROPPED

Detectives investigating the mysterious murder of W. F. Grant, station agent at Ellenwood, are up against a blind wall, they indicated Wednesday.

Unable to find any tangible evidence to warrant further suspicion that U. L. Phillips, 29, of 44 Formwalt street, and his wife, were implicated in any way with the murder September 6 of W. F. Grant, station agent for the Southern railway at Ellenwood, police released the couple Wednesday morning. Following their arraignment before Recorder George E. Johnson under disorderly conduct charges.

Phillips drew a fine of $5 and costs, and settled bills he was said to owe for board. The case against Mrs. Phillips was dismissed upon the payment of the check she was charged with having given a taxi driver for $40, covering a trip from Macon to Atlanta.

Bigamy Case Dropped. When Phillips was released the bigamy charge was not pressed against him. If there is prosecution on the grounds of an alleged bigamous marriage, prosecution will have to be started by the state.

The police have not been able to prove that Phillips was ever married to the woman in Ellenwood by whom he had two children.

Detective A. G. Stone, who with Hugh T. Brown arrested the couple, said Bibb county authorities would not prosecute Phillips under a name bigamy charge. His bride was Miss Martha Reeves, of Macon.

Phillips had been taken into custody last Thursday by the officers in connection with complaints they received from three rooming house keepers that he had consorted with and boarded, remained at each place for a day and left without paying. The officers were told that Phillips had evaded unusual in newspaper accounts of the Ellenwood tragedy.

From the moment he was taken custody Phillips maintained that he knew nothing of the slaying and that he could furnish the police with a satisfactory explanation as to his movements on the night of the murder.

Robbery Clue Dropped. Two days have been spent by special investigators of the Atlanta police in an endeavor to verify the story told at Constitution reporter Sunday at Stockbridge by a man who gave his name as R. T. Jones. This man was anxious that the police should investigate a conversation which he said he had with Grant on the morning preceding the murder.

Grant had told him that from the station he had noticed burglars busy forcing an entrance in a store opposite the station. He had called to them and they had started to run. There were two negroes and a white man, Grant told Jones that he called: "You don't need to run, you are recognized."

Later he realized the danger of this call, and he expressed his anxiety to Jones in the words: "They may get me for it, because I really did not know them, but I just shouted at them to bluff them."

That night Grant was killed. Captain Geagle, head of the Central railway police, and Detective Cole, of Atlanta, find that there is little corroboration for this story.

The whole past history of Grant has been bared but nothing sensational or pointing to a wrong inflicted by him has been discovered. Yet the police feel confident that there is a woman in the case somewhere.

WALTON WOULD BE CZAR TO OKLAHOMA

and cities in Oklahoma show that there has been less crime during the past year than in any year since the war. Almost without exception the communities of the state were as peaceful and law-abiding as any normal community in America when this proclamation was issued. Since August 14, when martial law first was invoked in Tulsa county, the forces of the national guard have not been used in a single instance to quell any riot or civil commotion.

Oversteps Authority. "Governor Walton by his own acts has attempted to nullify rights guaranteed under our constitution and to halt the lawful processes of republican government."

"First, he has stationed armed guards before the legislative chambers at the state capital to prevent the legislature from peacefully assembling and he has threatened arrest any legislators who attempt to assemble and to keep them in jail during his term of office."

"Second, he has ordered the dissolution of a grand jury which was about to convene in a lawful manner for purposes of investigating some of his official acts, and he had a machine gun trained on the grand jury room of the court house."

"Third, by his own fiat he ordered the writ of habeas corpus suspended, although the constitution of the state specifically declares that 'the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus never shall be suspended by the authorities of the state.' The federal constitution also guarantees this right to American citizens."

"Fourth, he established censorship over two newspapers and threatened other newspapers with the same treatment, thus suppressing the freedom of the press, another fundamental right guaranteed both by national and state authorities."

Has Taken Civil Courts. "Fifth, he has ordered the military forces to take over the courts and the law enforcement branches of the civil governments in Tulsa and Oklahoma counties, in conflict with decisions of the state supreme court, which provided that the military forces of the state shall at all times be subordinate to the civil authorities."

"Sixth, although posing as the champion of law enforcement, he has released from the state penitentiary nearly 300 convicts, including murderers, rapists, bandits, and lynchers during the months of his administration. In some instances criminals who have been tried, convicted and sentenced in our courts were immediately freed when they produced pardons or paroles signed by the governor in advance of the sentences."

"These instances clearly indicate Governor Walton's despotic conception of his executive powers. Under his administration our visible or republican form of government has been set at naught, civil courts supplanted by military inquisitorial bodies, our officers of the peace replaced, our grand juries charged with ferreting out crime disbanded under the threat of machine gun fire, and our legislature, enacted under our democracy, forbidden at the point of bayonets to proceed to assemble."

"These acts create an intolerable situation in Oklahoma—one which the people cannot endure and the press cannot condone. The newspapers of the state uphold rigid adherence to all the laws and they are united in demanding that constitutional rights of assembly, free press, civil courts, grand juries and jury trial by law be preserved inviolate."

"The supreme law of Oklahoma today is not visible or invisible government as Walton says—but constitutional government or despotism."

Ask Legislature to Meet. The address to the law makers follows: "To the members of the legislature: 'If it is legal for the legislature to meet, and we believe it is, we urge that a special session be convened as quickly as possible.'"

"The charge has been made frequently in the past few months that the chief executive of the state has been guilty of specific violations of the laws and constitution of the state. Neither the governor nor the state should be compelled to rest long under these aspersions. The editors of Oklahoma urge that the legislature meet immediately, ascertain the truth or falsity of these charges, and take the proper action thereon."

"We have the utmost confidence in the members of the Oklahoma legislature as true and loyal defenders of the good name and integrity of our state."

MARTIAL LAW FOR YEAR IF NECESSARY

WALTON
Oklahoma City, September 19.—(By the Associated Press.)—Governor Walton's threat to prolong martial law over Oklahoma a year "if necessary to clean it up," assumed enormous importance today, as the state passed quietly its fourth day under martial law.

Declaring in an interview with a local newspaper that he will keep martial law in effect until county officials show a willingness to enforce the law, the executive asserted: "I am not short of money. I have been reported. I can hold out a year with the military operations at their present strength."

The governor expressed satisfaction at the progress being made by the military courts of inquiry here and at Tulsa, the only points actually under martial law. Both courts have unlimited jurisdiction under the decree of martial law throughout the state and it is known that the scope of their inquiries into military activities is not confined to the respective counties in which the courts sit.

While secrecy surrounds the proceedings, it has been intimated that state officials of the Ku Klux Klan will be summoned by the military investigators. Reports, reported to have been spirited away from local headquarters of the organization, now are being sought, according to reports in official quarters.

N. C. Jewett, grand dragon of the Oklahoma realm of the Klan, returned here today, after an absence of several days. He neither would affirm nor deny reports that he had conferred with high officials of the order concerning the local situation and declined to say where he had been.

A new element was injected into the situation today when State Senator Clark Nichols, of Eufaula, came out in flat opposition to the attempt now being made by certain legislative opponents of Governor Walton to call a special session, with a view toward impeaching the executive. In an open letter to his colleagues in the upper house, Senator Nichols asked:

"Isn't this the very worst time to have a session of the legislature? Legislatures are prone to go wild in ordinary times; what, then, could you expect at this time?" The senator said he urged his cohorts to "wait for the cooling time."

Solons Hard at Work. In defiance of the governor's threat to jail all legislators who attempt to convene in special session, leaders of the movement continued today their efforts to obtain a majority of the lower house so that an immediate call for the extraordinary session can be filed. It is expected that definite action in the matter will come before the end of the week.

Under the plan, the house would convene as an inquisitorial body to "investigate conditions in the state." Should the house vote impeachment proceedings, it then would be necessary for the senate to convene to try the governor on the charges.

Military guards stationed at the entrances to the house and senate chambers in the state capital will prevent the law-makers from meeting once a quorum is obtained, sponsors of the plan declared.

HAMILTON SLAYERS NAMED BY WOMAN

the past two days, assisting the police in rounding up the assassins of his son. No other motive for the crime but that of revenge has been advanced by the police.

Hamilton Gives Warning. The warning given by Hamilton to a drug store keeper that suspicious looking negroes were hanging around the place is thought to have been the motive for the slaying. Hamilton was shot twice. Passerby saw two negroes run away from the scene of the shooting.

One other mystery which baffles the police is the fact that Hamilton was registered at the Southern hotel under the name of C. J. Jones.

DEFENSE SCORES IN PEANUT CASE

Norfolk, Va., September 19.—Three peanut buyers were put on the stand in federal court here today by counsel for the Peanut Growers' association in an effort to show that they, as agents for certain of the sixteen defendants in the association's $3,025,000 suit, had endeavored to induce growers not to deliver their crops to the plaintiff organization in accordance with their contracts.

Cross examination of the witnesses by Captain Tazewell Taylor, of Norfolk, representing certain of the defendants, however, developed a boom-erang, and Judge Griner ruled that the witnesses in their negotiations with the farmers had acted on their own responsibility and not as agents for any of the defendant firms.

The morning session of the third day of the trial of the damage suit that has grown out of the so-called war between the growers and the shellers in the peanut industry was taken up with the examination of A. Obier, president of the Planters' Nut and Chocolate company, one of the biggest buyers of the product in the country. In the afternoon seven witnesses were called by Lawrence L. Levy, of San Francisco, associate counsel for the plaintiff, in an effort to show conspiracy on the part of the sixteen defendants, the majority of whom are members of the National Peanut Shellers and Cleaners' association.

Witnesses Testify. L. T. Fowden, of Williamston, N. C., was put on the stand by Mr. Levy in an endeavor to show that he had been employed by the Bain Peanut company, one of the defendants. Asked in direct examination if he had bought peanuts for the Bain Peanut company in 1921-1922, the witness replied, "Yes." He then was excused from the stand and Z. T. Gurkin, a farmer of Williamston, N. C., was called. Mr. Levy asked him if he had ever had a conversation with Mr. Fowden relative to not selling his peanuts to the peanut growers' association in accordance with his contract with the association.

This question precipitated controversy. Mr. Taylor, for the defendants, objected to the witness answering the question. Mr. Taylor then insisted upon cross examining Mr. Fowden. Under cross examination, Mr. Fowden said that he was not on the payroll of the Bain Peanut company at the time in question. He said that he was in the drug and peanut business and a farmer and that he bought peanuts on his own responsibility.

Heard "Trust" Speech. C. T. Whitely, a North Carolina farmer, also under cross examination said that he had bought peanuts for the American Peanut corporation and the Franklin Peanut company, defendants in the suit. But he added, he was not on salary, merely working on commission. Mr. Whitely testified that in the summer of 1921 he heard J. Frank Foushe, at that time secretary of the peanut growers' exchange (later known as the peanut growers' association) make several speeches while soliciting members for the exchange. At a meeting in Statesville, N. C., he said, he heard Mr. Foushe state that if the Peanut Growers' exchange could get a certain quantity of peanuts, it would succeed in putting the cleaners out of business.

It was brought out in cross examination that the quantity of peanuts mentioned by Mr. Foushe on that occasion was 51 per cent of the crop. Other witnesses examined, and with similar result, were William J. Unphlett, of Franklin, Va.; C. B. Miller, of Winston, N. C.; J. H. Burness, of Hertford, N. C.; George Brown, of Kellford, N. C., and W. A. Jorner, of Franklin, Va.

The trial is expected to extend through two weeks.

CAR HITS BOARD, BOARD HITS GIRL; LEG IS WOUNDED

Miss M. E. Thomas, of 332 East Fair street, suffered a badly bruised leg about 3:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, when an automobile driven on East Fair street by R. P. Daniel, of 220 East Fair street, ran over the end of a board, causing it to be thrown against Miss Thomas. She was taken to Grady hospital where her wounds were dressed.

Witnesses say that the board was lying in the road and that it was thrown on the sidewalk, where Miss Thomas was walking, when the machine ran over it. Officers W. A. Goode and W. F. Ballard, who investigated the accident were requested by Miss Thomas not to make any charges against Daniel.

That there would be "something doing" when the grand jury made its presentments has been gathered from remarks made from time to time by members of the board, which was empaneled at the July term of the superior court. Further than to caution newspaper men to be on the watch for "a good story," though, the grand jurors have refused to answer any and all questions about the matter.

PATHFINDER PARTY IN JACKSONVILLE

BY O. J. WILLOUGHBY,
Highway Department Editor,
Atlanta Constitution.

Jacksonville, Fla., September 19.—

The Constitution's pathfinder reached Jacksonville this morning after driving many roads to determine the best routing to Florida on the Jacksonville-Waycross route. A most enthusiastic reception was given. The Constitution party at every Georgia city through which this route passes and road officials gave assurance of improvements in the few weak spots on this route. Ware county now has a tremendous road building program under way, necessitating detours on nearly every road leading to Waycross.

Assurance was given The Constitution party that the detour and weak places in the road from Alma to Waycross would be kept open and in the best possible condition until the new state and federal aid road is opened between these points. Jack Williams, editor of the Waycross Journal-Herald, H. A. Stallings, secretary of the chamber of commerce, District Engineer Rose and county officials entertained the pathfinder party while in Waycross. At Douglas, Judge F. W. Dart, president of the Kiwanis club; Fred Rickerson, editor of the Coffee County Progress, and other prominent local citizens welcomed the party and rendered valuable assistance.

The pathfinders, while in Florida, will log and inspect the east coast roads to Miami and the cross state roads via Orlando and Bushnell to Tampa and St. Petersburg, returning to Atlanta from Jacksonville and Orlando via Lake City, Valdosta, Cordele and Tifton. Stops will be made on this trip to confer with local officials and public spirited citizens and organizations. When this trip is completed, the pathfinder party will have made more than 2,000 miles of road to make The Constitution's #1924 Florida route folder the most complete and valuable of any folder issued by The Constitution in the four years that it has conducted a complete free road information service for the morning public. The folder will be ready for free distribution in about three weeks and will be distributed by a number of the leading civic and commercial organizations, hotels, garages and automobile firms in Georgia and Florida as well as by The Constitution's highway department.

Major Joshua Fain, Confederate Veteran, Dies at Home Here

Major Joshua E. Fain, 77, Confederate veteran and pioneer Atlantan, died Wednesday morning at his home, 15 Windsor street.

Major Fain was born August 3, 1846. He had been a resident of Atlanta for more than 50 years and was active in many civic and business development, which contributed to the city's remarkable growth.

He served throughout the period of the war between the states, first with the First Alabama Rangers and later served with Fifty-first Alabama cavalry, commanded by Colonel John T. Richard. He enlisted as a private and attained the rank of major, serving at one time as a staff officer with General A. J. West, Major Fain's regiment, surrendered at Greensboro, N. C., April 25, 1865.

Major Fain took a prominent part in Confederate reunions, and in April of this year he represented Atlanta at the reunion in New Orleans. He was a member of the Mary Brannan Memorial church and was very active in affairs of the church until a short time before his death.

The deceased is survived by his widow, one brother, John B. Fain, and three sisters, Mrs. W. H. Fishback, Mrs. Richard Clark and Mrs. Sallie Chapman.

Funeral services will be held Thursday morning from the chapel of Barclay & Brandon, undertakers, in charge, and interment will follow in West View cemetery.

PROBES TO COMPEL STEWART TO TESTIFY

cent of their annual salaries to assist the commissioner in his race for reelection in the fall of 1922.

Jackson Raised Fund.

Upon cross-examination, Mr. Hillburn stated that he did not know that Mr. Brown had personally been responsible for this, his knowledge of the action being that it was handled by a committee of the employees, consisting of L. B. Jackson, director of the bureau of markets; J. I. Hicks and Oscar Lee. The witness stated that, in so far as he was concerned, it was not a voluntary contribution. He said that his assessment amounted to one hundred dollars which he paid in three installments and that "he was strained to pay it."

Walter Vance, warrant clerk during the administration of former Governor Thomas W. Hardwick, testified that statements that the expense account of C. H. Kittrell, a member of the assembly in 1922 from Laurens county and a member of the port and harbor commission, including his bill for the period of the assembly session at a local hotel, had been paid on a state warrant approved by either Commissioner Brown or Mr. Jackson, were false.

Payment Ordered Stopped.

He stated that requisitions for the hotel bill, and two other expense accounts in connection with the port and harbor commission work, had been approved by Secretary of State S. Gust McLendon, chairman of the commission, and Governor Hardwick's name signed to the warrant by Miss Myrtle White, of the executive department. Later, upon his return from a visit out of the city, the governor ordered payment stopped on this warrant. Mr. Vance testified that the voucher for this account was not approved by either Commissioner Brown, Director Jackson, or anyone in the agricultural department. Mr. Vance said.

Later, Manager Keen, of the Kimball House, was put upon the stand. He testified that Mr. Kittrell paid his hotel bill himself, in currency, at the end of his residence in the hotel.

Mrs. Lytle Called.

In addition to Mr. Stewart, the committee on Wednesday ordered the sergeant-at-arms to instruct the sheriff of McDuffie county, to bring Mrs. Alice Louise Lytle, editor of The Columbia Sentinel, before the committee as early as possible. Chairman Lankford stated that a telegram to Mrs. Lytle asking her presence had undoubtedly been delivered as the telegram company had not reported otherwise. Nevertheless, a telegram from the McDuffie sheriff stated that she was not in the county and therefore he could not serve the subpoena.

Grover C. Edmondson, who was also a member of the Sentinel staff during the lifetime of the late U. S. Senator Thomas E. Watson, had likewise been absent from McDuffie county, when an effort was made to serve the subpoena. He, however, had been located in a hospital at Savannah, and the sheriff of Chatham has been instructed to bring him before the committee as soon as his condition permits.

To Probe Bug Bureau.

During Wednesday's session, the committee decided that the bureau of entomology was a branch of the department and would be included in the investigation. No evidence touching on this bureau will be taken until Monday, however, in order that Sam Olive, attorney for Mr. Brown and the department, may prepare himself to conduct the defense intelligently.

Under cross-examination, Mr. Olive asked Mr. Vance if he had not tried to secure the position of state oil inspector. The witness replied in the affirmative, and added that Mr. Brown had promised him the position after Senator Watson had requested it. The appointment, however, was not made and the witness admitted that his "feelings toward Mr. Brown" were "not at all good." He also admitted that he had sent information to the Columbia Sentinel, on which many of its editorial attacks on the department were based.

When Mr. Hillburn took the stand, a member of the committee asked him:

"What do you think about the department of agriculture?"

Good Save for Politics.

"If they would leave out politics, it would be a pretty good department," was the answer.

Mr. Hillburn was asked to tell, in his own words, what accusation he had to bring against Mr. Brown, or the department.

He stated that in August, 1922, he tendered his resignation to the commissioner, but that it was refused. He said he decided to stay, in order not to embarrass Mr. Brown, while a political campaign for reelection was under way.

He then told of the assessment of $100 for campaign expenses.

Later, he said, he heard reports from various sources that he was to be "let out" on January 1, and that Peter V. Rice was to succeed him. Shortly after January 1, he said, he asked Mr. Brown as to the truth of these reports, and was told that they were correct.

Later, he said, he asked Mr. Brown for the return of the $100 campaign contribution. Mr. Brown, he said, told him he did not have the money, that it was in the hands of his campaign committee, and that his personal funds were very low.

Worked Month Longer.

However, he said, he was later told that his term of employment would be extended one month, until the end of January. He was paid his entire salary for the month on January 15, the advance payment being made on his own request. He testified that he remained in the office for the entire month and did not criminally accept state's money for services never performed. He identified his own handwriting in items entered upon the books of the department practically to the end of the month and said that he and Mr. Rice did the work together.

Asked if Rice was also paid for that month's work, the witness said he did not know. All he knew was that he received his regular monthly salary of $106.66. After he was told that he would be kept for an additional month, Mr. Hillburn testified, nothing further was said on either side about the return of the $100.

Raised Warrants Charged.

The morning session was featured by a charge made by Walter Vance that illegal vouchers had been submitted to him for payment, when he was warrant clerk, by the department. One of these, he said, contained raised figures.

J. I. Hicks, former assistant commissioner, was sworn and testified that Gas Vason, former doorkeeper of the house and one of the principal witnesses against the department, had approached him with a proposal that all oil and fertilizer inspectors be assessed $1, the money to be paid Vason for alleged "political" services in securing the assistant commissionership for Hicks. Mr. Hicks said that he rejected the offer.

Mr. Hicks further stated that the department was well managed during his term of office, and that no extravagance existed anywhere in its affairs. He said there were approximately 275 oil inspectors and 40 fertilizer inspectors on the payrolls. He testified that he resigned the position voluntarily in order to accept a better paying post with a private concern.

Gas Vason, who was a witness at the morning session testified his belief that many of the records of the department would look "funny," if carefully examined. Upon this statement, the committee directed the sergeant at arms to take Mr. Vason to the department and find these records referred to. Mr. Vason later brought in certain documents and the hearing proceeded.

Motive Questioned.

Mr. Vason then told the committee he would like to have certain petty cash items, on warrants of the department, investigated. He said they appeared excessive, and that frequent warrants ranging from $200 to $400 were drawn payable to B. A. Hancock.

Mr. Olive, in his cross-examination, tried to show that Mr. Vason was antagonistic to the department because he had been refused a position with the bureau of markets when he applied for one, and because an effort he made to sell calcium to the state for an unknown firm had been frustrated by Commissioner Brown.

Subpoenas were issued Wednesday morning for former governors Hugh Dorsey and Nat E. Harris. These, in addition to Thomas W. Hardwick, who was subpoenaed Tuesday, will make three former chief executives of the state called as witnesses.

The Wednesday session adjourned at four o'clock to be resumed at nine Thursday morning.

Throughout the probe, the accusers of the department will testify first, after which Commissioner Brown and employees of the department will be put upon the stand.

Probe To Be Thorough.

Members of the committee are determined to conduct a "thorough and fair inquiry," according to statements by chairman, Lankford and his associates.

"Since this committee was appointed, much has been said about it being 'hand picked' and already having made up its decision," said the senator. "I want to say right now that each member of the committee is sworn to do his duty and I believe we will submit a report which will speak the truth. If there is anything wrong with the department, we are going to let the people know about it. On the other hand, if the department is being conducted in an efficient manner, we are going to state just that in our report."

Representative Carl Guess declared that since the investigation has been ordered he is in favor of going to the "bottom of all charges." The personnel, without personal allusion, he continued, satisfies him "beyond all doubt" that the committee will do its duty.

Invites Evidence.

"If there is anyone in the state that knows anything improper about the department of agriculture, he should come forward, without a subpoena, and give the committee the benefit of his information," he said. "Where witnesses fail to appear, we should issue subpoenas and send officers after them."

Another member stated he was fighting for a thorough inquiry in order that the next regular session of the assembly might not be "wasted with charges against various state departments." Last session, he said, he listened day after day to allegations against the department of agriculture and the highway commission. The highway department has been investigated, he continued, and with the conclusion of the present inquiry, there will be no excuse, in his opinion, next year for continued attacks on the two departments.

Representative Bennett and Representative Dykes were other members of the committee asserting themselves in favor of a rigid investigation.

MERCHANTS WARN TENANTS OF PEDDLERS

Bulletins, warning tenants of Atlanta office buildings of the operation during the fall of peddlers of furs and other wearing apparel, have been issued and copies have been forwarded to building superintendents by the Atlanta Retail Merchants' association, it was announced Wednesday.

It is pointed out by C. V. Hohenstein, executive secretary of the association, that the peddlers operate without a license and often misrepresent the goods. Many buyers are said to have been the victims of such operations last season.

LYRIC BURGLARS STILL AT LARGE

No clues pointing to the identity of the bandits that robbed the Lyric theater just before daybreak Wednesday morning had been unearthed by detectives assigned to the case late Wednesday night.

The robbery, considered by local authorities to be one of the most daring to come to their attention recently, proved likewise puzzling, in that the thieves eluded detection by the night watchman, Frank Day, who is said to have been given first information concerning the affair by Eddie Foster, negro janitor, when the latter came to work Wednesday morning.

Cash and valuables estimated to reach $5,000 were obtained by the robbers, who forced open the large iron safe in the building, and also rifled the cash drawer in the soda fount in the lobby.

The thieves made their escape in a motor truck they had stolen from the Walker Roofing company. In their flight a sheet metal cash box, containing deeds and other valuable papers, was dropped from the truck, as was a pistol, a knife and some burglar tools. These were found by G. M. Williams, who carried them to the office of Grant-Jeter Realty company.

Captain M. J. Wright, head of the Bertillon department, made photographs of finger prints, but had developed no clue of particular value from them late last night.

UNIVERSITY OPENING MARKED BY EXERCISES

Athens, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—Nine hundred students had registered at the University of Georgia for the fall semester when the books closed for the day at 6 o'clock this afternoon. University authorities expect more than 1,500 students.

Formal exercises opening the university were held in the chapel this morning with Chancellor D. C. Barrow, Dr. Andrew M. Soule, president of the state college of agriculture, and Walter McElreath, of Atlanta, as speakers.

The latter spoke on the constitution, the university observing "constitution week" with the remainder of the country.

Mr. McElreath, after pointing out that the constitution is the basis of the government of this country, urged the students to read it and revere it and become well versed in its teachings as well as imbibing its spirit.

The constitution, he asserted, depends after all on the people. It cannot perpetuate itself, he said.

Over two hundred girls will register at the university this year, it is indicated.

PRISONER IS BLINDED Fellow Convict Who Hurlled Lye Is Indicted.

The federal grand jury Wednesday indicted Israel Henson, inmate of the federal penitentiary, on a charge of assault for having thrown a can of potash in the face of Andrew T. Bailey, a fellow prisoner, causing Bailey to lose his sight. The alleged assault occurred on the morning of July 10.

Henson is already under indictment in the federal court on a charge of assault for attacking D. Davis, a guard at the prison, in an attempted jail delivery in 1921. Three other prisoners who attempted to escape at the same time, are also under indictment.

Rockdale County Soil Survey Report To Be Distributed

Full reports of a recent soil survey of Rockdale county, made by the U. S. department of agriculture in cooperation with the state college of agriculture, has been published and is now ready for public distribution. The different soil areas are shown on a colored map which is incorporated in the report.

It is pointed out that while the soils of Rockdale are well adapted to a wide range of crops, cotton occupied over 60 per cent of the area planted in 1919, while corn covered another 30 per cent. The farmers, however, it is stated have not intensified their agriculture to any marked degree and have failed to take advantage of the opportunities presented for numerous good money crops. It is predicted that the advent of the boll weevil will force greater diversity in farming.

AN OPEN APOLOGY to the magazine-reading public and to the newsdealers of Atlanta and neighboring cities

THE sale of the September issue of The Red Book Magazine so far exceeded all our expectations that this apology is deemed necessary because of our inability to fill re-orders. The beginning of the two brilliant novels, "The Golden Ladder" by Rupert Hughes and "Blue Blood" by Owen Johnson, in that issue—continued in the October issue with a synopsis of the opening chapters of these two serial stories—stimulated the sale beyond all precedent.

This apology is made in the interest of the newsdealers who could not foresee the full extent of the demand, and the fault must be attributed to the Publishers who estimated that an increase of more than 100,000 in the press run would be sufficient.

The orders already received for October indicate a still greater increase, and the Publishers are providing for it, though it rests with the newsdealers to make their initial orders sufficiently large in time so that the supply may meet the demand. The Publishers will gladly pay for any telegraphic increases that may be sent to the Branch Managers.

Necessarily the Publishers will carry a reasonable reserve stock, but the mechanical side of the publishing business is such that a magazine cannot readily be placed back on the presses once off, where a large issue is involved, since it requires many forms to make up the magazine as a whole.

The October issue will be on sale on September 23rd, and re-orders as well as increased orders should be promptly communicated to Branch Managers.

HOW TO GAIN ALL:—Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.—Matt. 6:33.

ENFORCE TRAFFIC LAWS.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Atlanta safety council Wednesday a resolution was adopted vigorously demanding a better enforcement of the city's traffic laws as enacted last March.

It pointedly, and with marked significance, declared it was useless to devise, or even seriously discuss, other fixed programs for making Atlanta's streets safe until the present laws were given a fair test by enforcement; and in this connection it did not hesitate to charge that these laws were being openly and flagrantly violated every day in Atlanta, which violations were not only causing unnecessary and disturbing and expensive traffic congestions in the heart of the city at all hours, but were responsible for many of the accidents from recklessness in driving of automobiles would seek, when out of the zone of congestion, to make up the traffic delays by fast driving, and in many instances reckless speeding.

The safety council's special committee met with Mayor Sims, Recorder Johnston and Police Chief Beavers on Tuesday, as a result of which a fuller and more definite meeting will be held with the full traffic committee of council on Friday morning.

That the council means business is evident from the militant spirit it is manifesting, and from the very pungent resolutions its executive committee passed on Wednesday, dealing with a situation that is undoubtedly becoming more alarming daily, and decidedly more menacing now that the winter months are approaching with a shorter daylight period, and naturally a greater all-day general vehicular congestion.

Despite its militancy, however, which is in the interest of all the people in the greatest single problem that confronts Atlanta, the spirit of the council is one of helpful and strengthening cooperation, and not of coercion or intimidation. It does not seek police powers for any of its members, nor the embarrassment of the police department by indictments, but it does seek through group action and force, as does every right-thinking individual, that the laws as written shall be enforced to the letter, and then, if found faulty or weak or inadequate, the recourse is to repeal or amend, and the substitution of new and more effective laws to control or govern the situation.

And in this it is entirely right. The police department may not be altogether to blame for the flaunted violations of traffic regulations. Individual indictments should not perhaps be made. Perhaps there are not a sufficient number of traffic officers. Perhaps they are not properly allocated. Perhaps this and perhaps that.

But there is one thing that is unmistakable and admits of no extenuations and that is that law—the most sacred institution—is violated on the streets of Atlanta every day and every hour, and as a result of these violations unprovoked congestions occur, accidents occur, and people are killed and wounded. Wherever the blame for such a situation rests it should be located, and the remedy applied without fear or favor.

Atlanta is a great city, and her traffic problem is peculiar to Atlanta. The downtown business area is restricted, as compared to her resident zones, and many of the streets are narrow, and unable to conveniently function to meet the demands upon them. All of this is admitted, but the traffic laws as they exist have been created to meet as far as practicable these

NEGRO IN THE NORTH.

Negroes of the south, who for a few months flocked to the industrial centers of the north and central west on the lure of big wages and better living conditions, are learning from contact some lessons that may eventually be helpful to the negro.

Certain it is when their dream-lands have been fully shattered, the influence of "a better understanding" will be a general steadying of conditions along the paths that the negro travels.

The following dispatch from Johnstown, Pa., coming so closely on the heels of the hurried exodus of 1,500 negroes from South Bend, Ind., as a result of "terrorizing the black quarters," is significant:—

"Johnstown, Pa., September 14.—(By Associated Press.)—More than 2,000 negroes have left Johnstown since Mayor Cuffield declared a week ago that only negro residents in the city for seven years would be allowed to remain. The mayor said today that no more can be brought here from the south.

"We have been sitting on a bomb in this city," said the mayor, "and it almost exploded last week," recalling the killing of three policemen and the wounding of five others by a negro.

"I feared an outbreak against the negroes unless I acted promptly," he said. "Many of the newcomers are bad people, including ex-convicts."

It will be recalled that the municipal authorities in many of the cities of the north have publicly advised, in order to bring direct man, against negroes moving to their cities. They point out that the congested living conditions are menacing to health, and that property owners in the negro section have increased the rents to almost prohibitive figures.

Quite true it is that the bodies of hundreds of negroes have been brought back for burial in the south in which they were born, within the last twelve months, pneumonia, small pox and other fatal diseases demanding an enormous toll.

The Constitution, as did other papers in the south, pointed out to the negroes at the beginning of the migration storm, that the final result would be. The movement away has subsided, and the movement back has begun, but thousands of them are said to be practically stranded and cannot get back, without those whom they left behind in the south send them the funds to pay transportation. The negro is not resourceful as a hobo.

The negro belongs in the south; and he belongs to work. He fits in in southern activities, and if deserting the southern white people are his best friends. He is finding it out—even if the lesson has been painfully administered.

THE TAX COMMISSION.

The tax commission appointed by Governor Walker has begun its hearings, following the original program of visiting the larger cities in the state. It is pleasing to note, however, that there has developed a sentiment in the commission that it should visit also the smaller cities, and get in as close touch as practicable with rural as well as with city conditions. It is hoped that such a revision may be made, for the question of taxation in Georgia not only involves the state system, but more largely the county and municipal systems, from which the real burdens of taxation spring.

It is gratifying that the work of the commission is moving off with perfect harmony among its members, and with such thorough cooperation on the part of the people of the state generally.

Whatever may be one's individual views as to the wisdom of an extra session of the general assembly, or of a citizens' tax commission not created by the assembly, the fact remains that the men who are patriotically and unselfishly devoting their time to the commission are among the leading citizens of the state and are endeavoring, earnestly and faithfully, to assist as best they can in solving to the satisfaction of the people one of the state's greatest problems.

Can Europe Hold Together?

Chapter V.—France's Problem.
BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

Frank Vanderlip once said that the French mind is the only one in Europe that is a million is reached. Even before the great war her handling of the public debt problem was notoriety. The French debt increased 48-fold from 1900 to 1914. Compare this with the debt of Great Britain, which increased during this time only two and one-half times.

The government of France in 1914 actually owed more money than the governments of Germany, Greece, Rumania, Serbia, Sweden, Norway, Great Britain and the United States combined. With the population equal to one-third of that of the United States and covering a territory one-fifth as much, France, entered the world war financially sick. She was already overburdened with debt. She owed $100 for every man, woman and child within her country. She had the largest government debt per capita in the world—twice that of Great Britain. Five times that of the United States.

France raised by taxation 15 cents of every dollar she spent for all purposes, war expenses included, during the period of the struggle. So 50 cents had to be gotten elsewhere. She borrowed on her credit and by inflating her currency, just as England did.

Just how was this done? By selling her liberty bonds and her short-term loans, she increased her debt from $6,522,000,000 to $28,000,000,000. In January, 1918, an increase of more than 300 per cent.

Second, by increasing her bank-note circulation—her volume of money in circulation rose from $1,150,000,000 on July 1, 1919, an increase of 730 per cent.

The war came to a close late in 1918. France was left with a devastated territory, a shattered economy, and a massive debt. The government was forced to pay all war costs "to the last farthing."

Huge Debt Increase.

Since the close of the war, France has increased her public debt based on exchange, from $28,702,000 to $53,200,000 on July 1, 1920, and now to approximately $60,000,000 on July 1, 1923.

Since January 1, 1919, she has increased her bank-note circulation from $84,000,000 to $900,000,000. In 1914, an American dollar would purchase 5 francs; in January, 1920, 10 francs, and now, September, 1923, 18 francs.

The debt charges in 1923 are twelve times the debt charges in 1919. More than three times the total expenses of the French government in 1919.

France is spending, for 1923, about 45,000,000 francs, and raising about 22,000,000 francs in revenue, yet she has a larger annual deficit than she has ever had in modern times. Still the difference of 23,000,000 francs must be raised. How? By issuing more of her paper money, by borrowing, and by selling her bonds.

But she cannot do this. The demand for the franc is falling. The franc is losing its value. The prices of goods produced within the country, the prices of raw materials, the interest rates on her bonds are getting higher and higher. Even at 6 per cent, the last issue of her bonds was not all subscribed. Then what? The government will "sell" them to the Bank of France, who, in turn, will give her bank notes in exchange.

When the Bank of France refused to buy any more bonds, then France has only one course open—the Russian "Gulden" and the German "Mark" and the Austrian "Schilling" and the Polish "Zloty" are fast moving into that position.

Bits of New York Life

BY O. O. MINTYRE

New York, September 19.—When Rudolph Valentino sailed for Europe with his wife the newspapers heralded his departure with headlines reading "Sheik Wears Sundress." The public chuckled. And an extremely sensitive young man will wince when he reads the clippings on the other side.

Before I met the screen star I thought of him as a young man who, bursting into sudden fame, had had a rush of blood to the head and was dizzy with his own conceit. My acquaintance with him extending over a year has resulted in a revision of that opinion.

I judge people by inconsequential things—the impulsive little act that springs from the heart. I have seen Valentino desolated over the mangled paw of a kitten. I saw him at a dance select a timid girl with whom no one else had danced for a partner.

In all my talks with him I have never heard him say an unkind word of a living soul. I happen to know he made a barnstorming tour with a beauty club company to pay $80,000 worth of debts.

My acquaintance with moving picture players is fairly large. Among all of them Valentino is the most serious minded about his work. He is a prodigious reader of the best in literature and is an art critic of no mean ability. He is frankly bewildered by his success. He believes sincerely he owes the American public a big debt. He does not forget he came here ten years ago, penniless, and he has not forgotten it.

I have been with him in cafes when every eye was turned upon him and if he realized it he is a greater actor than I think he is. 1914 two pictures in which he has appeared he believes are worthy. He credits the success of these to the stories and direction.

Valentino, failing at his first job in America as a landscape gardener, turned to professional dancing as the means of making a living. He had not then mastered English. The halo of the hoover of the vaudeville Broadway world clung to him. It is a deplorable class and he suffered from it.

Down on Lafayette street near the Tombs prison residents know rent-collecting people who are fond of front of the prison as "watchers." They are parents, wives and sweethearts who hope for some sight of prisoners who just wish to be near them.

The bootblacks whose chairs line the edge of the sidewalk near the Tombs are men who have been found for those who become ill. Each contributes a portion of his earnings weekly to the fund. Most of the shivers are men who have been found at the same stands for years. They have their regular customers who have patronized them for years.

Wah Sing conducts a laundry on Rector street. Or rather he did. He became ambitious to a side line and his shop is no more. A still exploded and wrecked the place. Wah Sing was found sitting on the curb when the policeman arrived.

Tribute to the Memory of General Lafayette

Editor Constitution: "We are in possession of undoubted evidence that Lafayette was a Mason and nothing could be of more interest to Masons in particular and Americans in general than the agreeable Masonic, social and working relations existing between General George Washington, the Mason, with his young assistant, brother Lafayette, writes William McDougall, in the New Englander, October 14, 1922.

Apropos of the celebration of Lafayette's visit to Savannah, other facts regarding him are interesting. In the "Life of Marquis de Lafayette," Margaret Guilfoyle says: "Their children spoke English as fluently as French" (page 5). "Lafayette preached the abrogation of ancient privileges" (page 27). "He took an active part in France to restore the official registration of Protestants" (page 25). Montgomery, in his "French History" (page 237) mentions a Lafayette who was moved in the French assembly, and which was adopted. Part was as follows:

"Article 6. Liberty to worship and full civil rights were granted to Protestants and Jews in common with Catholics.

"Great reforms were made in the criminal code. Heresy and witchcraft were struck from the list of crimes. Trial by jury was provided for in criminal cases."

Bayard Tuckerman, in his "Life of Lafayette," states: "At the same time Lafayette was occupied with efforts to improve the miserable condition of the French Protestants. Unable to contract a marriage or make a will valid before the law, persecuted at the whim of the church, a large number of the best subjects of the French crown were forced to choose between exile and intolerance. Lafayette visited the cities of France where the Protestants chiefly lived, consulted with some of the principal preachers and afterwards, by his own personal efforts, secured their release from the prison of Versailles."

We are profoundly grateful for Lafayette's fight for the oppressed in France. His noble character and his devotion to the cause of the oppressed are a source of inspiration to all who are true to the principles of liberty and justice for all.

Taxes and Prohibition Linked by a Writer

Editor Constitution: In your issue of August 18, I note you published my letter under the heading of "Comments the Editorial: 'How It Affects Georgia.' This has brought me several strong letters from different parts of the state, one writer saying: 'I was pleased to read your article in The Constitution on single tax, and I hope you will keep it up. Tell me some time ago, I would like to read it again. Everything you have to say about that great truth counts.'

As a friend of mine, a noted single taxer, has said to me some time ago, 'We can only sow the seed, the growing of it is in other hands, not ours.'

Yes, sir, I was hoping to enlist your powerful pen and paper to place before the people this all-important question. I have read Henry George and everything that I could lay my hands on, and I am sure that this method of raising taxes, it seems to me that it would cure many of the ills complained of.

For some time I have felt two things were working seriously against the farming interest of our great state—taxation and prohibition. We are not doing all we can to help the life as a farmer as possible for those on the farms. No wonder there is being left behind a dismal desert waste.

I find enclosed article on this question, "A Few Solid Truths." Should you see proper to publish it—do so. I might see the people to think, if not, will thank you to return the article, as I have not kept a copy.

Have had the good fortune to help build up three of the largest and most successful cotton mill plants in Alabama, Georgia and Tennessee, although I am no longer in that line of business, but I am today devoting the best that is in me to help the planter fight the boll-weevil. For I realize that a cotton famine would mean untold suffering not only to the cotton mill help on this side of the water, but across the seas. And, as we have practically a monopoly of the great staple, we can make the world pay a living price for it. What would become of the southern cotton mill interest—with a cotton famine facing us?

I receive my daily Constitution, after looking over the headlines—turn to your editorials and read them all.

COMMUNITY CHEST PROGRAM IS ADOPTED

The federated charities idea with a common treasury was accepted by one hundred leading business men of Atlanta at a meeting held in the chamber of commerce Wednesday morning. Twenty-two of Atlanta's larger charitable institutions also agreed to support the plan. Eugene R. Black, president of the Atlanta Trust Company, presided over the meeting and accepted the chairmanship of the big campaign to raise the half million dollars. The drive will be staged some time in October. The president reported that sufficient money to support the twenty-two charities during the year 1924, but that the drive would be being worked out by an executive committee.

Edwin P. Johnson, publicity committee chairman, said that the community plan had been accepted in 22 cities. He said that a scale is being worked on which the amount to be asked of every citizen will be fixed.

CRACKERS SLAM OUT 3 TO 4 WIN OVER MEMPHIS CHICKS

Cracker-Little Rock Game Thrown Out by Martin

Final Standing of Locals May Be Directly Affected By Ruling of League Head

Locals are Now Only Five Points Out of Third Place and a Win Today Over Chicks Will Give Miller's Clan Coveted Position.

BY HENRY ALLEN.

The ruling of President John D. Martin of the Southern league that the second game of the double-header played between the Crackers and the Little Rock Travelers at Ponce de Leon park last Monday was illegal and must be thrown out of the standings, may have a direct bearing on the hectic race now being staged for third, fourth, fifth and sixth place.

President Corbett received notice of President Martin's ruling yesterday afternoon, when the Cracker-Memphis game was in progress, and he stated that he would appeal the case to the Southern league directors. The next meeting of the board of directors will be held in November and should the position of the Crackers in the pennant race hinge on this one game, Atlanta fans will have a long wait for the final decision.

The game in question was a postponed affair between Little Rock and Atlanta at Ponce de Leon earlier in the season, but the Southern league head ruled that the teams had no right to play the game as the recent series was supposed to be played in Little Rock. Although the games were transferred here by mutual agreement, Little Rock was playing as the home team.

President Corbett's view of the matter, as stated to this correspondent, was that the series with Little Rock was officially completed after the first game had been completed. As both teams were here in Atlanta, it was decided to play off the postponed affair.

Would Have Been in Tie.

Had the game with the Travelers been allowed the Crackers would have been in a virtual tie with Memphis for third place this morning after the defeat handed the Chicks yesterday. As it is they are still five points behind Johnny Dobbs' outfit and a win this afternoon will send the locals into the third position.

As the race now stands the Crackers, Memphis, Nashville and Birmingham are all closely bunched and every game will count a lot towards deciding where each team will finish in the pennant hunt.

After the series today with Memphis the Crackers will draw Nashville Friday and close the season here Saturday with the same club. They will go to Memphis Sunday for a one-day stand, which is the final game of the 1923 season.

A fairly good crowd was out to watch the game yesterday, but the attendance since the stands were burned several days ago has fallen off considerably. The club officials have arranged to the best of their ability to make comfortable arrangements for the fans for the remainder of the season. They are making arrangements to take care of much larger crowds for the remainder of the week, as these will be the last games until next April.

Tech Gridders Are Given Light Work on Wednesday

New Plays Are Given Varsity by Coach Alexander—Williams and Nonemacher Put on Regulars.

BY JOHN STATION.

There was a pause in the mad whirl yesterday, and quiet reigned over all Grant field. The let-up was no doubt due to the extremely hot weather which prevailed.

As an eye opener, the whole squad was charged with the making of all those men who missed his noon lecture due to extra leaps around the track, just to remind them that they should be at lecture.

In this half hour, from 12:30 to 1:00, Coach Alexander takes up the fine points of the game, the fundamentals of offense and defense, new plays, errors in executing old plays, and similar important items.

The remainder of the afternoon was put through an extensive series of lumbering up exercises. Perhaps the most grueling of the lot was the tumbler act in which each man had to tumble over and over the width of the field as rapidly as possible.

Then all men were motioned to change five yards, dive to the ground and roll over. An admirable little exercise, if one wishes to reduce rapidly.

But the main item just now devoted to signal work. Some new plays were taken up and run over. A few changes were made in those plays already in the repertoire. To be sure, Tech is now in position, in so far as the play of plays is concerned, to play through three or four weeks.

Naturally enough, more new stuff will be added as the season goes along. But the main item just now devoted to signal work. Some new plays were taken up and run over.

MOFFETT CHOSEN MAYOR OF DUBLIN

Dublin, September 19.—(Special.) Herbert R. Moffett, well-known young business man, was elected mayor of Dublin in the city primary here today, defeating Captain L. Q. Stubbs and W. B. Rogers by a decisive majority. Four aldermen were elected in the same election and a majority of voters to ballot on the question, favored the commission form of government.

F. S. Sconyers was unopposed for alderman from the first ward; R. Hill English defeated E. L. Madrox for alderman in the second ward, by a vote of 452 to 389; Mack L. Jernigan defeated J. R. Cherry for alderman in the third ward by a vote of 486 to 355, and L. Cleveland Pope defeated J. Marion Peacock by a vote of 425 to 417 for alderman in the fourth ward. The race between Pope and Peacock was hard fought throughout and friends of both candidates were planning victory until the last vote was counted. Pope was adjutant general of Georgia national guard under Governor Hardwick, and Peacock is a young newspaper man, 24 years of age.

A space on the ticket provided for an expression of voters on the commission form of government, a subject which has concerned many Dublinites during the past few years, and 223 voters favored the plan and 125

INSURANCE FIELD IS OPEN FOR SEX, MRS. BOYKIN SAYS

Atlantic City, N. J., September 19.—(Special.)—Mrs. B. M. Boykin, prominent Atlanta club woman who resigned from all civic club offices to organize the Woman's department of the Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance company, of Atlanta, made the principal address before the national convention of Fidelity company representatives here tonight.

She declared her belief in the insurance field as offering the greatest opportunities for women who wish to embark on business careers. Her address was the feature of tonight's program and one of the outstanding features of the week's convention in Atlantic City. A tremendous ovation was accorded the Atlanta woman at the conclusion of her address.

Mrs. Boykin declared that insurance is "an unknown quantity" to the southern women and expressed the belief that the Woman's department of the insurance company in Atlanta offered great opportunities to educate the women of the south in the savings value of life insurance.

She voted to continue the present form of government.

J. B. Jones, present mayor of the city, did not enter the race for reelection.

Captain Stubbs, one of the defeated candidates for mayor, has served the city many times as mayor in the past, served several terms in the legislature and was a striking figure in politics in this county for many years.

Ford Buys Site Of Forty Acres In Memphis, Tenn.

Memphis, Tenn., September 18.—Confirmation of reports that negotiations had virtually been completed for the sale of forty acres of land on the river front here to the Ford Motor company was made today by Charles Boyle, a member of a real estate firm, part owners of the tract. It was stated that plans had been made for the erection of an extensive assembling plant on the tract. The purchase price agreed upon was said to have been approximately $120,000.

BRUNSWICK INVITES EDITORS OF DISTRICT

Brunswick, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—The January meeting of the Eleventh District Press association will probably be held in Brunswick, and plans are already on foot to make it the largest and most successful meeting ever held by the organization. An invitation was extended to the association at its meeting in Valdosta Monday by the Brunswick News and the Brunswick Journal of editors, and it was tentatively accepted. A definite announcement as to the meeting will be made shortly.

Vice Presidency Not Active Goal Of W. D. Upshaw

William D. Upshaw, member of congress from the fifth district, it is present assisting in a revival campaign in Graham, W. Va., and copies of newspapers from that state received in Atlanta indicate that close attention is being paid there to many rumors that the Atlanta congressman's name may be placed on the national democratic ticket in 1924 for the vice presidency.

Congressman Upshaw, however, in an interview which appeared in the Telegraph, of Bluefield, W. Va., on Sunday last, denied that he is an active candidate for the office, and is detailing the impression of the Georgia member, says:

"It was to such a man, always gentle and dignified, that we put the plain blunt question: 'Congressman, what is your attitude toward the frequent mention of your name by influential leaders for the second place on the democratic ticket?'

"You look like you are asking for the straight truth," the dry leader said with a dry smile. "I am not a candidate in the sense of either 'initiative or referendum.' My proposed nomination was born in the general idea of the people, and I do not expect to make a speech as a candidate for the position. But I would be neither profoundly appreciative nor profoundly disappointed if I were nominated, made first by Frank Batchelor, the head of the Minute Men of America, patriotic organization of three million men, and followed, while I was in Europe, by the endorsement of leaders of the American legion, as a marvelous record of support on soldier legislation. Editors, correspondents and educational and political leaders from all parts of America are around in stepping out of a trap, with a mid-air, he failed and was a foot or two short of a creek and in the rough. Then he banged his head on the ground and was in a fair way for a half at par five, but Marston's approach putt almost went down and Max lung up.

Marston made it two in a row by copping the 18th with another birdie four to Bobby's five, a magnificent chip shot to within a foot of the cup giving Max the victory. This made the Philadelphia birdie 2 down at the end of the morning round.

19th Is Halved.

The nineteenth was halved in par figures but both looked bad on the twentieth. A hook, which has been troubling Bobby since the first time he went over this course, again bobbed up and his putt wound up in a trap. Marston sliced to the rough and pitched to ten feet of the pin and rammed down the putt, winning when Bobby failed to sink an approach putt after coming nicely out of trouble.

The Atlanta still had a lead of one hole and his prospects—there were many of them in the largest gallery that has followed a match in the tournament—figured that Bobby would quickly slip back into the superb golf he displayed during the morning. However, the pull in his tee shot declined to be killed off and Bobby again went to the rough at the 21st, Marston getting little except direction on his drive. Bobby failed to properly catch the ball in coming out of the weeds and was left with a long iron shot to the green, while Marston was just short in two. Jones then delivered a mighty drive, but he accomplished the feat from the cup, Marston's chip was bad and the hole was halved in par fives, leaving Bobby one up.

Has Difficult Shot.

On the 22nd, where the first break had come during the morning round, Jones taking the lead at this point, Bobby was called upon to make a very difficult approach shot over several traps, as he had pushed out his drive, but he accomplished the feat, which left him one up.

Marston had a straight drive on the 23rd, while Bobby found a trap, again looking. This place has been an ever difficult approach shot over several traps, as he had pushed out his drive, but he accomplished the feat, which left him one up.

MASONIC CLUB PLANS MORE AID TO CHILDS' HOME

The new Georgia Child's Home committee of the Atlanta Masonic club, announced by President Charles N. Walker at the meeting Tuesday, began Wednesday plans for giving better support to the institution than it has been possible to give before. The committee is composed of Herbert Finch, F. H. G. Wilkins and W. A. Jones. President Walker is a member ex-officio.

The appeal by former Governor John M. Slaton for protection of the sovereignty of the constitution of the United States was the principal feature of the program at the Tuesday meeting, which was arranged in recognition of "Constitution Day." State School Superintendent Ballard introduced Mr. Slaton. The meeting was held in the Peacock cafe.

BOBBY JONES LOSES IN AMATEUR MEET

on in two and was short with an approach putt. Marston was too strong in coming out of the trap and had a 25 foot downhill putt. He left himself a styptic and failing to negotiate it, conceded the hole.

At the dogleg sixth Bobby had a splendid drive, which carried 250 yards and gave him an unobstructed view of the green. Marston was getting his second in a clump of trees, located at the turn. He succeeded admirably, punching out one of the hole shots he made during the round, and was on the green 20 feet from the cup. Bobby put his inside, 15 feet from the pin, but the putt was down hill. The hole was halved in par four.

Both were on the green on the "water" seventh with their niblick pitches and the hole was halved in par three. Bobby missed by sending down a 25 foot downhill putt and Marston, also crept up closely on his from approximately the same distance, but different angle.

Bobby looked like the winner from the tee at the eighth, as his drive was right down the middle, while Max pulled his to the rough, but the latter pitched up in great fashion and had a 15 footer for three. It looked like another halved hole when Bobby slightly overplayed his approach and was 20 feet from the pin, but the Atlanta won when he rammed down the putt for a birdie three. This was the first of three greens upon which Bobby took but a single putt.

Makes Great Shot.

The most remarkable shot Bobby made during the entire round, and one that we firmly believe will rank with trap recoveries of all time was delivered on the ninth, which was halved. After over driving his opponent, Bobby pushed out his approach shot and found a trap and Marston's second was seven feet from the cup. It seemed the closest he had ever been to be clipped off, but the back-spin Bobby used in coming out brought the pellet to a halt less than a foot away from the cup. Marston missed his three and remained three down. This shot gave the gallery something to talk about for the rest of the round and not one of the spectators is likely ever to forget it. That's how good was the recovery.

At the turn Bobby had used but 37 strokes, two under par, probably the finest score that has been made on this side during the tournament. Marston was but two over par himself, and against most of the contestants in this field would have been down several holes, as beating scores. Here are the cards and par:

Par out . . . 535 444 344—36
Bobby out . . . 535 344 344—34
Marston out . . . 535 464 344—38

Bobby Gets Birdie Four.

To start the tenth Bobby hit a tremendous clout down the middle and almost into a trap, which is the penalty for topped second shots. The smash netted about 275 yards. Marston pulled his drive and was far short with his second. However, he went on the three and took two for a five, losing to Bobby's birdie four. Bobby's second was on the green, which should give some idea of the distance he was setting on the long shots, as this hole is 490 yards.

Then came a bitter duel, five holes in succession being halved, being scored at better than par during the period. Their pitches were on the short twelfth, and each used two par fives while Marston went down the hill tap by ten feet, but sinking on the return for a half.

Marston ran down a six-foot putt for a birdie four on the twelfth, and earned a half. Bobby hit a terrific iron second shot here and was on the green. Marston pressed and was behind a bunker at the right of the green. He went on in three and took but one putt. This hole is approximately 500 yards from the tournament tee and plenty of trouble may be encountered from tee to green.

On the short thirteenth the gallery worried Marston and he called out sharply to the spectators, requesting them to keep still while he putted. The hole was halved in par three, neither showing any disposition to wilt under the fast pace that had been set, and which was being maintained. Information that Bobby had a chance to break seventy swept over the gallery, and the match picked up followers at every hole.

Bobby Smashes Jinx.

Bobby effectively smashed the jinx which has camped over his tee shots at the 14th, by cracking the pellet far down the middle, not many yards from a trap. Marston also had a fine drive, and both were on in two, Bobby overplaying his and leaving himself a very difficult down-hill putt. Marston approached to within seven feet of the pin, and it began to look as if he would win his first hole of the match, as Bobby had either won or halved all up to this point. Marston was very nervous, and again requested the gallery to quiet down, and Bobby again missed, the hole being halved in par four.

Marston drove Bobby by a few feet on the 15th, but Bobby had the advantage of his approach shot and missed the putt, the hole being halved. The 16th was also halved, but Bobby needed a marvelous recovery, getting out of a trap, with a mid-air, he failed and was a foot or two short of a creek and in the rough. Then he banged his head on the ground and was in a fair way for a half at par five, but Marston's approach putt almost went down and Max lung up.

Marston made it two in a row by copping the 18th with another birdie four to Bobby's five, a magnificent chip shot to within a foot of the cup giving Max the victory. This made the Philadelphia birdie 2 down at the end of the morning round.

Marston had a straight drive on the 23rd, while Bobby found a trap, again looking. This place has been an ever difficult approach shot over several traps, as he had pushed out his drive, but he accomplished the feat, which left him one up.

Marston began the remarkable streak of golf which brought him the margin he needed. He scored a birdie 3 on the 34th and squared the match. He was behind Bobby from the tee but was in better position, as Bobby was forced to carry over a clump of trees at the turn. Marston put his approach six feet from the pin and Bobby followed with one that stopped ten feet off. Bobby missed his putt, rolling up for an easy four, but Marston ran up the three.

Marston Takes Lead.

Max followed with another magnificent shot on the short "water seventh" or 20th hole, for purposes of discussion in this yarn and Bobby wrecked his chance by going into the water. Marston came down to the green and holed the putt for a two. Bobby picking up before Marston scored the birdie. This sent Marston out in front for the first time during the match and never again was he headed.

A ten foot putt gave him his third birdie in a row, this coming on the 20th, where he scored a three. On this same green during the morning round Bobby also had sent down a long one, which had given him a three bird lead, the advantage he retained at the end of the first nine holes of the encounter. The 27th was halved in four, Bobby missing a ten-foot putt by inches for a win.

The cards and par:

Par out . . . 535 444 344—36
Jones out . . . 455 454 544—40
Marston out . . . 535 453 234—34

Bobby Loses Chance.

Bobby lost an opportunity to cut into Marston's lead when he missed a ten-foot putt on the 28th taking a par five while Marston went down in the same fig. It appeared that Bobby would cut the 29th as his putt from the tee was 15 feet from the pin, Marston being barely on the green and facing a putt of fully 40 feet. Max rolled over ten feet with his approach tap and Bobby came close for a sure three but Marston proceeded to send his down for a half.

Birdie was good enough to cop 30th, although both had some trouble reaching the green, slight slices sending them green high, but not on. Bobby was away and chipped to within seven feet, Marston following with one that halted eight feet off. Max threw a scare into the Atlanta delegation by ramming down the putt but Bobby followed suit and the hole was halved.

The 31st was halved in par three and Bobby won the 32nd, laying Marston a styptic after Max had worked up to what appeared to be a half. I thought this bit of bad luck would have some effect on Marston's game but it must be said to his eternal credit that he stood his ground and shot with a champion and clung on until victory crowned his efforts.

Bobby Loses Ground.

Bobby lost the ground he had gained by dropping the 33rd. This sent him back to two down and with but three holes to play the situation was far from bright. He lost, too, after making a noble recovery following a hooked tee shot. His long iron second stopped just short of the green and Marston was on, but barely so, he was dangerously near some rough on the far edge of the green. We expected Bobby to chip up closely and take a half but he was entirely too strong and left himself a 15-foot putt which declined to go down and he took a five, losing to Marston's par four.

After a good drive from the 34th tee Bobby sent his approach fairly close to the pin and Marston barely reached the green. Bobby studied the putt for some time and came within an inch or two of sending it down for a win, but missed and the hole was halved in par four, as Marston's approach putt was very good.

Bobby's drive on the 35th was 265 yards, 20 yards ahead of Marston. Marston put his third on ten feet from the cup and Bobby almost holed out, stopping two feet off.

Then Marston did the unexpected, he sank the putt and they shook hands.

How to get $1,806 interest from a $1,000 bond

One thousand dollars invested in a fifteen-year Miller First Mortgage Bond, paying 7%, will bring you a total of $1,050 in interest—$35 in cash every six months, to be used as you please.

If, instead of spending the interest money, you use it to buy additional Miller 7% Bonds, thereby compounding your money, you will receive in a lump sum in the fifth year a total of $1,806 interest. Your original $1,000 will thus have amounted to $2,806.

The $1,806 earned in 15 years at 7% compound interest represents an average of more than 12% per year on your $1,000 investment.

These remarkable returns are made possible to the investor because most of our issues are secured by income-earning structures in Southern cities, where 7% is the prevailing rate. Miller Bonds secured by New York City property, and precisely similar to our Southern issues, pay 6 1/2%. To anyone who would like further information about these securities which have never caused a loss to any investor, we will gladly present a booklet of facts about Miller Bonds. Call, write or telephone for "Creating Good Investments."

This method of investing is based on the plan of adding to your "odd amounts" of interest, as received, sufficient money to buy an additional $100, $500 or $1,000 Miller 7% Bond. These extra sums, which are not included in the figures shown below, actually increase the amount you get back at the end of 15 years. The way your original $1,000 grows is shown by the following table:

Years	Amount	Years	Amount
1	$1,071	6	$1,511
2	1,147	7	1,618
3	1,229	8	1,734
4	1,316	9	1,869
5	1,410	10	2,006

To get all your money back at the same time, you would reinvest your interest in bonds maturing in the fifteenth year.

Every WomanMiss Aycock Weds Mr. Collier
At Capitol Baptist Church

The wedding of Miss Mary Temple Aycock to Roy Robert Collier, which was solemnized Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock at the Capitol Avenue Baptist church, was a lovely event of cordial interest to their many friends.

The church was beautifully decorated with palms, amylax and ferns. The altar was flanked with palms interspersed with tall baskets of pink and white dahlias and roses. Silver candelabra, holding white unadorned tapers shed a soft glow over the scene.

Preceding the ceremony, Homer Faulkner sang "I Love You Truly" and "Because." The wedding march was rendered by Mrs. A. B. Brown, who played "The Melody of Love" during the ceremony.

Wedding Party.

Miss Tommie Lou Payne, Miss Allene Herring and Miss Janie Will Rivers were bridesmaids. They wore dainty costumes of georgette in pastel shades made on simple lines with silver handbags. They carried arm bouquets of Columbia roses and wore silver bandeaux in their hair.

Miss Elizabeth Aycock was her sister's maid of honor. Her gown was of orchid chiffon adorned with crystal beads. Her flowers were Ophelia roses.

Little Juanita Aycock, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a frock of pale pink and cream lace. Preceding the bride, she showered rose petals in her path.

Carl Julian Aycock, nephew of the bride, carried the ring to the altar concealed in a Madonan lily.

Radiant Bride.

The bride, who entered with her father, Jesse William Aycock, was radiant beautiful in her bridal robes of duchess satin made with draperies.

bateau neckline and without sleeves, the whole of which was outlined in seed pearls. Her coronet veil was worn with a wreath of orange blossoms and caught up with pearls.

The groom, with his best man, Dr. H. C. Crawford, met the bridal party at the altar, where the impressive ring ceremony was performed by Rev. A. J. Morgan, of Acworth.

Groomsmen were W. E. Collier and F. W. Collier, brothers of the groom, and Dr. T. B. Threalt. C. H. Etheridge and J. T. Hale were the ushers.

Wedding Reception.

Immediately following the wedding an informal reception was tendered intimate friends and close relatives of the young couple at the home of the bride's father on Formwalt street.

Palms, pink and white cut flowers and amylax were combined in effective decoration of the reception rooms.

Miss Thelma Stanford kept the bride's book.

Mrs. B. C. Blackmon and Mrs. C. H. Etheridge served punch.

Assisting in entertaining the guests were the sisters of the bride, Mrs. W. H. Garrard and Mrs. S. W. Haines, of Memphis, Tenn.; Mrs. J. C. Aycock and Mrs. C. J. Aycock and the sisters of the groom, Mrs. W. E. Collier and Miss Lucy Collier.

Mrs. Collier, since her graduation at the Girls' High school in Atlanta, has taken an active interest in church work, and by her amiable disposition and high ideals has won for herself a circle of warm friends. Mr. Collier is a popular young business man. He holds the responsible position of assistant manager for the McClure company.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Collier left for a motor trip to points of interest in Tennessee, Kentucky and North Carolina. Upon their return they will occupy their new home on Holderness street.

Snap Bean Farm To Be Purchased By Funds Collected Rose Day

All Atlanta will be asked to buy and wear a rose on next Monday, September 24, when the Uncle Remus Memorial association will conduct a "Rose Day" for the purpose of raising funds with which to purchase Snap Bean farm, the acreage adjoining the Wren's Nest, the home of Joel Chandler Harris.

The association, with Mrs. A. McD. Wilson as its president, purchased many years ago the home of the noted author as a memorial, but Snap Bean farm, which adjoins the home has not been added to the memorial.

Only $5,000 is needed to complete the memorial and it is hoped by the committee which is headed by Mrs. Fred Stewart that the amount will be raised Monday, September 24.

Mrs. J. R. Binford, of Peoria, Ill., who is spending several weeks in Atlanta has written very interestingly of the Snap Bean farm. She is an active member of the Druid Hills Methodist church and the Atlanta Woman's club.

"Uncle Remus, the sage of Snap Bean farm, was one prophet loved and honored by his home people," she writes.

"This was proven in that most practical way shortly after his death, when the Uncle Remus association was formed. The association bought from the Harris estate Uncle Remus' dear old home, the Wren's Nest. With this purchase went only a small plot of ground upon which the house stands. Adjoining this was Snap Bean farm, upon which the association had an option of $5,000. The time has come when they must pay this amount or lose the acreage. We must not allow this spot filled with dear memories to go to ruin."

"But on Rose Day, Monday, September 24, if each citizen of Atlanta will buy and wear one of the pink roses which will be for sale that day in all parts of the city, giving generously for his or her rose, Snap Bean farm will be preserved to posterity."

"Help the association to raise the needed $5,000 to complete the memorial by wearing a pink rose. The man who wrote and spoke a universal literature and language; a literature and language spoken and understood by young, middle aged and those with snowy crowns, having an appeal to all human hearts."

Miss Frances Newman Tells Of Parisian Winter Joys

Miss Frances Newman has returned from a stay of nearly a year in Europe and is the guest of her brother, Henry Newman, on Cherokee Drive.

By MARTHA GOODE ANDERSON. "Yes sir; I knowed dem was Hemlock folks cause dey all out dey said wad a fork," said the butler of a well-known Peachtree street family, describing a recent "swell" social affair at which he had served.

According to Miss Frances Newman, Atlanta's brilliant young writer, who has just returned after nearly a year's stay in Paris, French people can not belong to the "Hemlock" section of society "if we judge by the comment above, for all French people out their salad into shreds with their knives."

"And salad in France," she narrates, "means lettuce pure and simple, marinated over and over in oil and vinegar in a way almost unknown to us. Of course, the sort of salad we know and delight in are unknown in France. The French people, on the other hand, neither do we know of the joys of caviar eaten with a marvelous dressing made of sour cream such as is served at 'Aux Canotiers,' a little Russian restaurant in Paris that is undiscovered by the average American."

Paris in the Winter. "The Paris of the winter," continued Miss Newman, "is a Paris as different from the Paris of the summer known to American tourists as day is from night. It is a Paris of ice and snow and cold, but there are a thousand things to do which do not go on in summer, the season factor being in the foreground. There are lectures at the Sorbonne, at the Vieux Colonne; matinee, classics at the Comedie Francaise, operas, concerts, theatrical performances; the gay and the notable from the wide, wide world gather in winter. As the late winter comes, the city is filled with the smart and elegant from America and England and the continental cities of Europe. They flock to the fashionable shops, to the restaurants, to the theatres, to the clubs, to the races, fly to the Riviera and cross again on the ocean in luxury as great as that of Roman nobles of old."

"Paris in effect," she went on, "is, however, distinctly changed since the war. This change is something tangible and almost imperceptible ways one scarcely sees on the surface. Paris is less gay. It is much less frivolous. Women do not dress well with the certain something so characteristic of the vrai Parisienne and seen no where else. The really smartly dressed woman in Paris is the American woman."

"At the opera the audience is distinctly cosmopolitan, made up of those people from nations where money still has value—Swedes, Japanese, Hollanders, Americans and English. The scene is one of the greatest beauty and brilliancy. The Japanese flooded Paris last winter and their gay and vivid costumes, so different, arrested the attention in every assemblage in Paris during the season."

No Ready-Made Clothes. "It is, of course, of dress that one thinks always in Paris, for the French capital has worn her sartorial crown long that it is not easily displaced. It is distinctly interesting to observe that Paris is nothing of a ready-made town, such as our cities have become in America. I mean by that that clothes are made to order to suit the individual wearer and are not bought according to size and altered according to the figure. Every tuck and pleat and scallop is outlined on this model. The dress is then finally made exactly like this model, sent home packed with infinite care and so that nothing of the shape is disturbed and no wrinkles appear."

Dear to Americans. "Paris somehow seems closer to Americans than almost any other city in the whole world," went on Miss Newman. "While we are so unlike in our point of view and national life, we are yet related in spirit. There is one thing I gained in this visit to Europe. I stepped my soul in a renewed admiration and pride in our south in a way I have never thought before. After I had seen the devastation of France and the shame of Germany in her defeat, I realized that we in the south had experienced both, and yet we have risen from the ashes of desolation without whimpering. And France and Germany—Italy, too—are all whithering."

"One of the most interesting experiences I enjoyed was flying from Berlin to London in a few hours. We descended in the environs of Berlin about 8:30 in the morning and were in London again in the early afternoon. En route, we came to earth about 10 miles from Berlin for a short stop, and in Amsterdam, where we made a stop long enough to change to a Deimler plane. I was violently seasick, but otherwise revelled in my air voyage."

MAKING GOOD

We had the nerve to open an exclusive optical store in 1905. We had the ability to "make good." Anybody can make claims; "delivering the goods" is really what leads to success. We claim to have one of the soundest and most reliable exclusive optical stores in the states. We claim we use every endeavor to treat our patients courteously and fairly. We claim that the welfare of our patients is our first consideration—but the claim is only the smaller half. As to the larger half, ask any of the better oculists, physicians, or any of our patients. We are willing to risk our reputation on their judgment—they will tell you we have made good as an exclusive optical store. No side lines.

What Women Wear

BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE

Designers here and in Paris borrow largely from Chinese sources without thought of yellow peril or fear of Mongol influence in dress and design.

One of the most striking developments traceable in European costume and designing of all sorts during the last century and a half consists of the inflow of Chinese design. At first it was a mere trickling which was augmented until it came with a stupendous rush. It is indeed difficult for us at the present day to see how enormous has been the influence of the Far East on the design and line of women's clothes and the houses we live in.

During the countless years that "stupendous mountains, burning deserts and illimitable ocean"—to quote Mr. Lambrop Stoddard—numbered of the world, our designers had a far narrower field of artistic inspiration than today, when apparently it is as natural a matter to design a hat in mandarin fashion as a la Marie Antoinette.

Let's hope that the gloomy ethnologists who look with apprehension at "the rising tide of color," especially when that color is Japanese or Chinese, will not feel new alarm in the present fashion for things Chinese that has come as a result of the Grand Prix ball in Paris early in the summer. At least that ball is spoken of as the starting point of the present Chinese craze, but it was merely a little stop for refreshment on the way. It is all part of the increasing influence of Chinese art and design that has been flowing thither ever since mountains, deserts and ocean ceased to be real barriers.

Chinese embroidery is spoken of as especially striking in the clothes shown in Paris for autumn wear. In fact, sometimes these Chinese embroideries were worked in such rich stuffs and such brilliant colors that importers would not have them copied literally in the models sent to this country. It is characteristic of the French designer that from whatever source he takes his inspiration he always stamps it with an inimitable cachet of France before he is through with it. However, in the case of the present vogue for Chinese design many of the reproductions have been most literal. The embroidery of one of Patou's gowns is copied with perfect exactness from a seventeenth century lacquered screen.

But this Chinese embroidery is worked on frocks and wraps that are unmistakably of the Occident. Among the most interesting examples of this were the organdies frocks of Victorian line, showing Chinese embroidery on the wide skirts. One such organdie frock embroidered with wistaria was worn with a drooping, garden-party hat trimmed with a spray of artificial wistaria.

Sometimes, however, Chinese embroidery appears on frocks and hats that are themselves of modified Chinese cut. Lenief, for instance, makes a black velvet blouse with wide mandarin sleeves and straight, low, upstanding collar, and embroiders it with white cherry blossoms in the Chinese manner. It is finished with a band of Chinese red crepe, and is worn with a Chinese cut and embroidery.

More Flavor. Iced tea is a splendid basis for any kind of cold mixed drink where you would ordinarily use water.

String Beans. A pinch of baking soda added to the water when cooking string beans will keep them green and make them deliciously tender.

Prolong Its Life. If your favorite flower holder has become too crumpled for use, pour melted paraffin into it and turn it around so the paraffin can fill all crevices. Let it dry thoroughly before putting water into it.

CHAPTER LXXXII.

Dreams.

Gloria felt as if some one had thrown cold water on the nice little blaze of her enthusiasm and completely put it out. Her disgust at not reaching Larry by phone discolored all New York for her; she had no further interest in staying there. "I might just as well go home," she reflected. A vision of Crossways rose before her—the big, comfortable house, with its low-walled gardens at the ocean's edge, and the red roofs of the stables standing out clearly against the back poplars. She'd go back and spend her days riding and playing golf—she stopped suddenly at that point. Gossiping—that would be the other thing; hearing all about Mr. Edwards and how happy she was since her marriage—the girls and women would look at her rather pityingly then, and she wouldn't be able to tell them that she could have had Guy herself if she'd wanted him, and if Mimi hadn't lied so, and been so unscrupulous.

And they'd talk about Virginia and Morton Phelps, and look at her pityingly again, and she wouldn't be able to tell them that she was happy. Virginia's madly in love with him, but he doesn't love her; he cares more for her than he does for her—anyway, he says he does. No, she couldn't say that. She wouldn't want to, even if she could; and if she did, nobody would believe her.

"I know how I've felt about these women who are always telling about the men they could have married if they'd wanted to," she reflected. "I didn't believe 'em. Well, I don't want to be one of those!"

Yet she did want to go home. She could not stand New York without Harry—she was willing to admit that. To wake up and not know that she'd been from him or see him some time through the day—it would be intolerable.

She began to pack her clothes. She dumped the contents of the closet on her bed, and when her trunk was brought to her, had them placed beside it. At first she folded her gown carefully and tried to pack them the best advantage, but the task soon became hateful, and she doubled cuffs and sleeves over the same hanger and thrust them into the trunk. The drawers of dressing table and bureau were dumped into the drawers of the trunks headlessly; when a box of sachet powder spilled on a pair of black satin sandals she tossed the slippers aside. The maid might be able to clean them, and if she didn't want them, it didn't matter any more. Nothing did.

Her lingerie had been in a chest of drawers. She gathered up an armful of it, a petticoat fell to the floor, and she thought of the things they would do; of how they would work in the garden and plan their life together.

Even the one morning that she had spent wandering about the house had stamped its memory on her mind. She sat there with the petticoat on her lap, fingering its ruffle, staring straight ahead of her. But at last she saw was not the room and its disorder, but a small house tucked away between big trees and a woman with a baby in her arms standing in the doorway, waiting for the man who was crossing the twilight fields toward her. She was picturing her on a farm with Larry, and smiling over it, as she thought of the things they would do; of how they would work in the garden and plan their life together.

Ever turn over an ink bottle on an expensive table cover? Does baby ever splash gruel on the fine dress Aunt Sally sent him for Christmas? Do you know the despair of trying to get out a walnut stain? Do they always seem to tar the roads you want to drive over and ruin your clothes? Ever do a little job of painting the screen and have the paint insist on getting on your shirt? Ever cut your finger and let the blood drop on your duck pants?

If anything like this ever happened to you, you'll find that a copy of the 35-page printed book on REMOVAL OF STAINS FROM CLOTHING AND TEXTILES, prepared by government experts, is exactly what you need handy on the library shelf. TWIGGS WILL ADOPT DIVERSIFICATION PLAN

Jeffersonville, Ga., September 19. (Special.)—Five acres of cotton to the plow will be the limit next year in Twiggs county if the farmers follow the recommendation of the board of trade which met here Tuesday. The body unanimously adopted the plan, which features diversification and makes cotton a surplus crop.

An effort will be made to get farmers of this county to agree to act together in limiting the cotton acreage and in fighting the boll weevil on what is planted. It was brought out at the meeting Tuesday that whereas four years ago Twiggs county produced more than $5,000,000 worth of cotton, this year the county will make less than $100,000 worth. Speeches by Baker R. Jones, W. C. Stokes, Irvin Fitzpatrick, president of the board of trade; J. H. Balcom, C. J. Broome and others were heard before the program was adopted.

Among those present at the meeting were S. C. Jones, S. E. Jones, J. Ware McCallum, J. G. Buckmore, W. M. Solomon, Thomas Lucas, H. F. Kennington, C. E. Mercer, W. H. Clift, Frank Lamb, D. S. "Atlanta's Own" Soldiers Camp on Chattahoochee While They Prepare for Big Parade Through City Today

State Photographers.

Scenes taken at the camp of the 22d Infantry, U. S. A., "Atlanta's Own," yesterday afternoon, on the banks of the Chattahoochee river.

The regiment will parade through the city this morning, at the end of a hike from Camp McClellan. Top, a general scene after the regiment had erected its "pup tents" on an open spot beneath the shade of the gorgeous autumn trees. Lower left, Sergeant Ruhr and Tom, the regimental pet.

Tom has covered every foot of the long march on foot with the regiment, "hiking" with the best of them. Lower right, Colonel J. M. Kimbrough, Jr., in command, sitting, and Captain A. R. Bolling, standing, adjutant of the regiment. The two officers are studying a road map as they rest in front of the colonel's tent.

BY RALPH T. JONES.

The boys are marching.

This morning, as you read this at the breakfast table, the 22d Infantry, U. S. A., "Atlanta's Own," is swinging down the Mayson-Turner road in full marching order, tramping with a pep and a zest that only the knowledge that the long hike is almost over can impart, and looking forward with delight to the return home, back to Fort McPherson.

This morning, at the junction of North avenue and West Peachtree streets, the organization will be met by an official welcoming party. Governor Walker, Mayor Sims, Adjutant General Charles M. Cox, of the state national guard, and other high officials of both state and city government have been invited to review the returning regiment. Starting at 10:30 the parade will pass through the business section of the city, down North avenue to Peachtree, thence along Peachtree and Whitehall and out to the fort.

National Guard Escort.

The regiment will be met at North avenue by a detachment of National guard cavalry, under command of Captain Sam Silem. Many of the civic organizations will take part in the reception and preparations to make of it a real gala occasion have been in Atlanta is going to show the 22d, once and for all, that they "belong" here and that the city is proud of them.

Yesterday night the regiment camped on the Chattahoochee river, where it is crossed by the Mayson and Turner road. They have hiked all the way from Camp McClellan, Alabama, leaving there on September 11, but with two days to be taken out, one for a lay-over on Sunday, and one for a parade, had constant rest and refreshment, and, like, at Annapolis.

Nestled among the colorful autumn trees, down by the Chattahoochee, the regiment, about 800 strong, pitched tents and settled down for half a day of rest and preparation for the parade of today. Standing on a hillside of the officers' tents, a group of khaki, and the company clusters of "pup tents," reminded of the days of wartime, when military maneuvers were a part of all the landscape.

Bury Cleaning Up.

The men were busy, washing, scrubbing and refurbishing generally. The dust of the long hike was slapped and pounded and scrubbed from uniforms and packs. Bedding rolls were inspected and every item of the soldier's equipment put in perfect order.

Soldiers took their ease, in comfortable undress as they waited for Thursday and the final lap in the march. Soft donkeys were in constant demand, and down on the banks of the river, it looked like Saturday night in the bathroom.

The regiment is commanded by Colonel J. M. Kimbrough, Jr., of Griffin, Ga., formerly instructor officer with the state national guard. They have been at Camp McClellan ever since April. They were sent, as representatives of the regular army, to attend the series of civilian training camps which have been conducted there. One battalion has been used as a demonstration battalion through the training period for the citizen campers.

The entire regiment went to the Alabama camp, with the exception of companies E, F and G, which were left in charge of the home station at Fort McPherson.

Soldiers Mostly Georgians.

The 22d has been stationed at McPherson ever since June, 1922. When they came here their roster was about 150 men, and they have recruited to approximately a thousand since then. Most of them being native sons of Atlanta, Georgia and the surrounding states.

Atlanta has missed them during the summer, but now they are coming home and there will be a whole-hearted welcome for every one, from the highest officer down, even to the dog that has marched every foot of the way, and which, while officially the property of Sergeant Roop, is in reality the possession of the entire regiment.

It is up to Atlantians to turn out en masse and welcome them today when they parade through the streets. The march will begin at North avenue and West Peachtree at 10 o'clock, and it will be a reminder of those days, not so long ago, when we watched the 52d division march away for France and the "western front," when we witnessed parade after parade of America's best, and when we almost grew accustomed to the thought of cruel warfare.

Perfectly Trained.

Today we shall see a regiment trained practically to perfection. Uncle Sam's infantry is famous the world over for its marching ability, and there are few organizations in his regular army which can excel the 22d.

Wednesday night they slept in tiny tents, out beneath the stars, with the rustling of Georgia trees to bear their weary bodies and a Georgia moon, smiled down. The hike was almost over. Ahead there stretched a few short miles on a perfect Georgia road, into the welcoming shade of the Georgia city which is proud of them and calls them her own. Today they march, once more, along their own streets, and out to their own home. Today, those streets will be lined with their own people, smiling a genuine welcome home.

Camp Motion Picture.

On Monday next, at the Metropolitan theater, every detail of the life at the citizen training camp at McClellan will be shown on the screen, in addition to the regular picture program. Movies will also be shown of today's parade. About 150 Atlanta boys in attendance at this camp will be seen.

The 22d regimental band, one of the finest in this part of the country, will likewise be on the Metropolitan program next Monday night. It will play at the performances in conjunction with the regular orchestra under Conductor Buel B. Risinger.

The pictures will be shown all week at the theater.

Why have BOILS?

If you have never experienced pimples, eczema, or boils appear. S. S. S. builds new blood cells. As blood cells increase in number impurities vanish. When impurities vanish boils and other annoying skin disorders disappear. S. S. S. is the conqueror of skin eruptions. It is the greatest blood cell builder, blood cleanser, and body builder known. It is foolhardy to suffer from boils and skin disorders when by putting your system in order these uncomfortable hindrances to well-being will be done away with.

Mr. V. D. Schaff, 557 15th Street, Washington, D. C., writes:

"I tried for years to get relief from a bad case of boils. Everything failed until I took S. S. S. I am now absolutely cured, and it was S. S. S. that did it."

S. S. S. is sold at all leading drug stores. Try a bottle and get rid of your boils and other skin eruptions. The large size is the more economical.

ANTHRACITE MINERS RESUME THEIR WORK

Scranton, Pa., September 19.—

After an idleness of more than two weeks, due to the suspension order of their union leaders, the 155,000 mine workers in the anthracite region resumed work today. The new wage scale, covering a period of two years from September 1 and embodying the terms of the Harrisburg agreement, based on the settlement submitted by Governor Pinchot, formally was ratified by the tri-district convention of the United Mine Workers on Monday and the suspension order officially lifted.

Union leaders say that a large output this winter was assured, although it is not expected that normal production would be restored for several days.

Action of American Express Company Enjoins Commission

A temporary 60-day injunction was granted to the American Railway Express company by three federal judges, sitting in Atlanta on Wednesday, against the interstate commerce commission. The injunction applies to a recent ruling of the commission providing that all express shipments between Atlanta and New York must be rerouted at Washington, D. C. The express company contends that this breaks the long haul and thus destroys its rights to the benefits of the long haul.

During the life of the injunction the court will pass upon the merits of the company's petition for a permanent injunction.

The judges signing the injunction were Samuel H. Stiles, Nathan P. Bryan and Robert P. Ervin.

COLON POISONING
DESTROYS HEALTH

Hastens Old Age and Premature Degeneration of All Vital Organs.

It is a wise man who understands his colon and keeps it in perfect working order. Health, happiness, vigor and long life are the gifts which an active colon can give you—and a lazy colon can take away.

Your colon is the last five feet of your digestive canal. It is your sewerage system; your garbage can, so to speak. Keep it clean and you are well and happy; let it stagnate and it will distill the poisons of decay, fermentation (gas) and putrefaction into your blood, poisoning your brain and nerves so that you are restless, irritable and blue; it is your heart so that you are weak, listless and lazy; poisoning your lungs so that your breath is heavy or foul; poisoning your stomach and digestive organs so that you are bloated, belching and uncomfortable with gas pains; poisoning your blood so that your skin looks yellow, sallow and unhealthy; poisoning every part and organ of your body, through your blood, making you look and feel old and ugly long before your time; making your joints and your back stiff, your eyes dull and your brain sluggish.

By the perfect law of Nature, your colon should empty itself three times a day—within an hour after eating. Does your colon work that well? If not, it has lost its tone. What do we mean by tone? Your colon is a hollow muscle. Its walls are made up of long, muscle fibres or muscle cells which, by their contraction, empty the colon just as you would squeeze a rubber hose pipe. These muscle fibres should contract three times a day—within an hour after each meal. If they do not contract, they have lost their tone—their power to contract.

But, there is a practically perfect remedy for lazy, flabby colons. This remedy quickly restores the tone, is absolutely harmless and decidedly pleasant to take. Clip this article and take it to your druggist. Tell him to give you a bottle of that new preparation, called Colotone—the colon tonic. It will cost you one dollar if you are pleased with it, nothing if you are not pleased with it, for every druggist has been instructed to refund the price and ask no questions if his customer is not thoroughly satisfied.

But you will be delighted with Colotone for it will make you feel like a different person. Your eyes will sparkle with vitality and alertness; your brain will be clear and active; your complexion more or less and transparent, reflecting the purity of your blood; your digestion will be thorough and your appetite keen, for your food will taste delightful and will agree with you; you will sleep and awake refreshed; your system will be full of vim and vigor; you will feel younger, stronger, vigorous—you will enjoy the pleasure of living.

Get started on Colotone today. Nearly every person over twenty-five or thirty years of age, and many younger, need Colotone more or less. You will be simply delighted with it. Colotone cannot possibly do you any harm—it can only do you good. Try it on our guarantee. It will help you live long, well and happily.—(adv.)

THEATERS : MOVIES

Lyric Theater—Today, Forsyth Players in "Dear Me."
Metropolitan Theater—All week, Douglas MacLean in "A Man of Action," and a Buster Keaton comedy.
Orpheum Theater—All week, Richard Dix and Lois Wilson in "The Last Man," and other features.
Howard Theater—All week, "The Silent Partner," with Owen Moore and Leatrice Joy, and other screen features.

"Dear Me."
 (At the Lyric.)
 A refreshing breath of optimism is putting Lyric theater patrons in a happy frame of mind this week, while the Forsyth Players are presenting "Dear Me." Hale Hamilton's charming love comedy. Human humor and wholesome sentiment make the play a most delightful one.

A pretty young maid of all work in a home for failures suddenly makes up her mind to break away and carve out a future for herself. To leave, however, means losing a man who has learned to love, in the end of night she tiptoes out of the house. But she does not go alone. The romance is charmingly developed. Miss Clara Joel, Fred Raymond, Jr., and Gus Forbes take the central parts. "Dear Me" will be presented again each night this week and at matinee today and Saturday.

Loew's Vaudeville.
 (At Loew's Grand.)
 Heading the vaudeville program for the last half of this week, "A Game of Hearts" will serve to introduce one of Loew's latest presentations, a surprise melodious fantasy with Eleanor Gale, George Barlow, John Boswell, Tom Neils and Elton Collins, all specialists in their respective lines, and artists who have won recognition and enviable fame for their talents as entertainers.

Other acts on this program will be Mort Fox and Joe Burns, a pair of clever entertainers, as they both possess wonderful voices and have a great command of humor; John Philbrick and Sadie Deveau offer an original hit entitled "Samples," a conglomeration of nonsense, songs and original bits. Sadie Deveau is an attractive miss who makes a splendid foil for her partner's quips and adds much to the success of their offering. Eaton Trio, sparkling with youth, charm and versatility introducing Joe Lyons, Eddie Lee and Sadie Fendler, have a novel rapid-fire act that hits the spots with snappy tunes and eccentric dances.

THE SILENT PARTNER.
 (At the Howard.)
 Leatrice Joy, Owen Moore and Robert Edson are the featured players in "The Silent Partner," the Paramount picture now showing at the Howard.

In the picture the evils of stock gambling are exposed with thrilling effect in this new Paramount picture. The scenes of the picture are laid in New York, and many of them are beautiful in the extreme.
 The picture is still continuing to be a big feature at the Howard. He and his boys play many of the latest hits of the season.
 The overture, "Zampa," by Herold, offered by the Howard Varsity orchestra, conducted by Enrico Leide and Alex Reese, scores a hit.
 "Lodge Night" is a laugh producer for loud and no one should miss seeing it.

MRS. LEON WALKER CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Ruby Elsie Walker, 46, wife of Leon Walker, vice president of Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose company, and one of the best known women in Atlanta, died at the residence, 27 Springdale road, at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Walker had been in ill health for many months and while grave doubt was felt for her complete recovery, death came as a shock to her family and host of friends and relatives.

Until sickness undermined her health early in 1922, she was unusually active in church and social affairs in this city. She was a woman of high intellect and many womanly graces and widely loved for her philanthropic work, especially toward the poor of Atlanta.

For many years prior to her death Mrs. Walker devoted much of her time to work of a charitable nature and contributed in many ways to relieving the suffering and in bettering the conditions of the more unfortunate ones, always going about this work in a quiet and unassuming manner.

Unceasing labors and unselfish devotion to work of this nature during the last years of her life is believed to have brought on ill health and hastened her death.

Mrs. Walker was the daughter of Martha Brown Byington and George Byington and was born in Fort Valley, Ga. While she was still very young her parents moved to Atlanta and practically her entire life was spent in this city.

She is survived by her husband, three daughters, Mrs. Charles Brzezion, of Waco, Texas, Mrs. Charles Freeman and Miss Leone Walker, of Atlanta; one sister, Mrs. M. S. Dixon, of Jackson, Miss., and one brother, John R. Byington, of Atlanta.

Family prayer will be held at the home at two o'clock this afternoon, and funeral services will be held from St. Philip's Cathedral, of which she was a member, at 3 o'clock. The church choir will render a number of special songs, favorites of the deceased. Interment will be in West View cemetery, Rev. W. W. McManis and Dean Johnston, officiating.

SUITCASE STOLEN FROM DUMB GIRL IN UNION STATION

Weirdly silent confusion reigned for a few minutes in the Atlanta Union station Wednesday afternoon while a score or more of deaf and dumb school girls joined in a general search for the suitcase of Miss Mylna Hargett, of Columbus, which was stolen by some unknown thief as they were waiting for a train to take them to the Cave Spring school.

Police were provided with a description of the contents of the suitcase, but it had not been recovered, late Wednesday night.

Bandits Loot Bank.

Galesburg, Ill., September 19.—Five bandits blew the safe of the Farmers bank at Joy this morning and escaped with about $4,000 in cash. Two men in a bakery near the bank were tied and placed back of the bank building under guard while the robbers worked. Telephone wires into the city were cut.

CREECH COAL Has all the good virtues of a free-burning domestic fuel without the objectionable elements that so often impair the quality of bituminous coal.

It ranks high in heat units and in every other respect will give the most satisfactory results.

TOWN OF TRINITY SWEEP BY FLAMES

Santa Rosa, Cal., September 19.—The town of Trinity, a community of between 20 and 40 houses, was wiped out, and a strip from two to five miles wide, between the towns of Kenwood and El Verano, laid waste by a forest and brush fire during the past two days, according to advices received here from the fire zone early today.

HAVOC IN RANKS OF GAME REPORTED.

Sacramento, Cal., September 19.—That the numerous forest fires in northern California have destroyed more game than at any time since the present open season began, is the opinion of George Neale, executive officer of the state fish and game commission. The deer and quail suffer most from forest fires, Neale said.

A large fire on the game refuge in Siskiyou county will mean the destruction of many deer, Neale declared. The game commission on this refuge, where hunters are not allowed to trespass, deer seem to have an instinct to go where they will not be shot, Neale said, but a forest fire will destroy them; they lose sense of control, and wander aimlessly in front of the fire until they are cremated, or strike a stream, which, if it is deep enough, saves them.

While the deer and quail are bewildered by a forest fire, he said. These birds are habitats of brush, and as they are low-flying the fire consumes them as it rages through the forest.

A herd of elk is menaced by a fire in Lake, Colusa and Glenn counties. Neale reported. The elk are on a game refuge.

WORK OF CLEANING RUINS BEGINS.

Berkeley, Cal., September 19.—The first step in the reconstruction of Crockett and Euclid avenue districts of North Berkeley, razed Monday in the most disastrous fire in the city's history, were taken today when workers attacked the flame-carried ruins with dynamite and wrecking tools.

On the 35 blocks or more, over which the fire raged, still lay blanketed with smoldering ruins yesterday, surrounded by a cordon of police and army sentries, victims of the blaze surveyed the extent of the disaster and began immediately making preparations for the rebuilding of the city after the debris of the conflagration has been cleared away.

Hundreds of chimneys, all that remains standing in the flame-carried areas, were blasted down today and workers commenced the task of hauling away the debris which lies scattered over the ruins.

The real and personal property loss in the blaze was estimated at $10,000,000 yesterday by C. C. Emslee, president of the Berkeley fire insurance underwriters, to whom 75 insurance adjusters reported after a complete survey of the fire zone. Not more than $4,000 was covered by insurance, he said. One hundred companies are sharing the loss and claims will be paid promptly, he declared.

The 2,500 homeless victims of the fire today had found shelter with friends or in homes thrown open to them, and many of the victims of the blaze were being housed in the city's hotels.

The list of those who were injured either by the flames or in minor accidents resulting from frantic efforts to save their homes from the fire or remove household goods, rose continuously yesterday and it was estimated last night that between fifty and one hundred persons were injured, although none seriously.
